Moving Day At Trevecca New Dorm Ready For Use

Johnson Hall takes on personality as girls move in. Above, Joyce Gordon moves from McKay to the newly constructed dorm.

By DOVIE CONNER

Yes, the girls of Trevecca are migrating to a warmer climate. They are going south—that is, south to the new, recently-finished dormitory. The eagerly awaited day finally arrived when it was announced that the trek could begin. The day for the departure was Friday, February 28.

Needless to say, the days prior to the move were filled with great anticipation for the girls involved. They were enthusiastic about occupying a brand-new dormitory with real beds, with the most in comfort, along with semi-private bathrooms with bath and shower as very inviting features. Each room is provided with a beautiful maple chest of drawers, a vinyl-top desk for two, ample book shelves and fluorescent study lamp. And the era of small closets is past, for there is adequate closet space in each room!

A lavatory is a feature in every room along with proper lighting, venetian blinds, and, much to the girls' satisfaction, sufficient mirrors.

Mrs. Irwin New 'Mom'

Mrs. Winona Irwin, from Chattanooga, Tennessee, has recently joined the staff of Trevecca as the new head resident for McKay Hall.

Mrs. Irwin has been a life-long member of the Chattanooga First church where she recently resigned her duties as secretary, in which she had engaged for twelve years, and pianist, in which capacity she had served the church for thirty-seven years.

Mrs. Irwin has two sons: Mr. Wm. C. Irwin, who is connected with the Arnold Engineering Company at Tullahoma, Tennessee; and Mr. Ed Irwin, who is presently preparing for the ministry at Trevecca.

Mrs. Irwin has five grandchildren. She has had contact with Trevecca for several years and expresses a deep love for the college. She wishes to be of service to God and feels that she is in His will here at Trevecca. We welcome you, Mrs. Irwin.

Boosters Club

The 1964 Booster's Club of the college, organized on December 2, 1963, and sponsored by the Alumni Association, is beginning with much enthusiasm. The goal of the club is to enroll 10,000 members during this year.

The cost of membership will be $5 per year. With this, members are urged to be a Booster's Club Prayer Partner and pray for the college every day.

To everyone who becomes a member, the college will give, free, four valuable items. The first is an extended play record album which includes songs by the Men's Glee Club, the A Cappella Choir, the Trebletones Choir, and the Treva-dores Quartet. This record has already been recorded at the RCA Studios in Nashville.

Members will also receive a free subscription to the Messenger, the official school publication, and the Trev-Echoes. A decal designating that the owner is either an "Alumni Booster" or a "Member Booster Club" will also be given.

Anyone who wishes to join the club may send $5 with his name and address to Trevecca Nazarene College Booster's Club, Nashville, Tennessee 37210. The album will be mailed immediately; the other items will be mailed as they are published.

The executive committee of the board of trustees voted to allot three fourths of the money from the membership dues to be applied to the proposed Physical Education building and one one fourth to be applied to a matching scholarship fund.

European Studies

CHICAGO—A new academic-year program in Spain for American college students will be inaugurated next August (1964) by the Institute of European Studies, largest U. S. sponsor of overseas education.

Called the Hispanic Year, the 10-month program will be conducted at the University of Madrid under the auspices of the institute, the university's department of political and economic sciences, and the Instituto de Cultura Hispánica, official Spanish cultural agency.

The program, designed for superior juniors and outstanding sophomores, offers a choice among more than 130 courses in history, political science, international relations, economics, Spanish language and literature, art history, philosophy and theology.

Admission to the University of Madrid will be possible for U.S. students who qualify for the university's courses in their major fields. This will depend on the student's previous course work and his knowledge of the special Spanish vocabulary required.

To serve other academic needs, especially outside the student's major field, the institute will itself offer courses in two basic groups, taught in Spanish by Spanish university professors. One group will form a broad junior-year curriculum in all the program's fields of study. The

The rooms are of a variety of four basic color schemes in light pastel shades. A view of the campus or of the city may be seen from the window of each room.

Other general features of the new dormitory are the lobby, which is furnished with beautiful new drapes and furniture; a lounge for the purposes of study, prayer, and meditation; ironing rooms; a kitchen for student group activities; and a beautiful student center for recreational purposes.

Mrs. Orndoff, former head resident of McKay Hall, is the house mother of the new dormitory. The new head resident for McKay arrived this week to assume her responsibility as a member of the Trevecca staff.

Even though the Senior House and Smith Hall were vacated, Dr. Wise states that there is still room for those girls interested in moving into the new dormitory.

Open house will be Friday, March 6. Dedication will take place during commencement week this spring.

Tuition to $12

(Editorial)

As most students now know, the executive committee of the College Board of Trustees has approved the raising of tuition from the current $9 per quarter hour to $12 per hour.

Event though the policy will not officially be adopted until the board meets, many rash statements are being tossed around by students. Such sayings as: "I can go to the state university for less than that," "But we're not accredited," — "Olivet's cheaper" are rash statements that evidently lack any thinking. Students should think some things over before speaking.

It is a necessity that tuition be raised at TNC if it is to remain a liberal arts college of any standing. Dr. Rollo, president of Queens College in North Carolina and representative of the Southern Association of Accredited Colleges to Trevecca, stated when he first arrived that he does not "see how the college operates on so little." He told the Student Council that he thought the cost per pupil would have to be at least $600 per year. He also stated that cost at Duke University is now $1400 per year per student.

Trevecca is growing. We are straving to become accredited. In-

Knight, V-P; Williams, Sec.

Jeanne Thrasher, Jim Knight, and Lucy Williams are the newly elected Student Body leaders for next year. The results of the Wednesday's election were announced Thursday in Chapel.

Jeanne Thrasher, president-elect, will be the third girl ever to fill that position in our student government. She is the daughter of Reverend and Mrs. C. R. Thrasher of New Albany, Indiana. A biology major and English minor, Jeanne's future plans are to earn a Master's degree from Peabody College as a medical librarian.

Jim Knight is the first student body Vice-President on our campus. The recent amendments to our Constitution provided for the office.

Jim will be in charge of the social-cultural affairs next year.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Melvin Knight of Buchanan, Michigan. His plans are to enter Peabody College after graduation.

Lucy Williams, secretary-elect, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams of St. Louis, Missouri. Under the new constitutional changes, Lucy will be able to devote her time to secretarial duties only. In the past the secretary has also acted as vice-president, taking charge of the meetings in the president's absence, and being next in line for the presidency.

Lucy also plans to work on her Master's degree at Peabody after graduation.

Comfort Presents Recital

SIDNEY COMFORT

Sidney Comfort, soloist, from Jackson, Mississippi presented her Senior Recital, Friday, February 28, in the Fine Arts Auditorium. She was assisted by James Van Hook, trumpeter, and Annette Troupe, pianist.

The recital was presented in three groups. The first section presented by Miss Comfort consisted of, My Hope Is In The Everlasting by Stainer; Speaks' The Lord Is My Light and The Prayer Perfect.

Between the first and second sections, Miss Troupe presented Italian Concerto by Bach and Beethoven's Sonata, Opus 14, #1.

The second section included the famous Erlkonig by Schubert, also a composition by Carissimi.

Mr. Van Hook played between the second and third sections, Delmas' Choral and Variations, assisted by Miss Barbara McClain.

To climax the evening, Miss Comfort sang Let My Song Fill Your Heart by Charles; Gillis Fine Eyes; Morning by Speaks.

Sidney, a senior is a Music education major and education-psychology minor. Coming to Trevecca as a transfer student, she has attended Hinds Junior College, Raymond, Mississippi, and Murray State Teachers College. While attending Hinds Junior College, she participated in many musical groups, including the school choir in which she was soloist for two years. During her two years at Trevecca, Sidney has been a member of the A Cappella Choir, is presently active in the Kappa Sigma Phi, SEA, and Music Club.

Upon graduation in December, 1964, she plans to continue her music education at Peabody before entering the field of teaching.

"Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit and that your fruit should remain; that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, He may give it you."

John 15:16

Wake Up!

Have you ever wondered why our school administration goes to such lengths to acquaint us with our missionaries? Just why do they bother with making plans and going to the expense of presenting these times of special emphasis? The answer is that we as young people, who will soon occupy the leading positions of our church, should be aware of the great work that our foreign workers are doing and of the needs of the heathen who have lived in darkness for centuries.

Through knowledge of these needs we can be sensitive to the voice of God if He should call us to a foreign field of service. But if we are not called to a special work, we have a duty to our brothers and sisters whom we do send. Oh, how we need to be made aware of the necessity of praying and giving of our means for the propagation of the Gospel! So many times we become lax in our concern for our brethren who sacrifice their all for the cause of Christ. This is not to imply that any less than a total surrender is expected of us, but rather that there are diversities of talents and callings. If our place is to remain at home; then we should fill that position well and to the best of our ability and not exist in a lethargic state of unconcern. After all, we expect the same thing from our missionaries. Can any less be expected of us. God makes no difference in His call for commitment. We, too are called to service, but in a different way. God help us, as those who remain behind, to be sensitive to the cries of our missionaries as they minister to foreign people, who are as important to God as we are, and as they attempt to break through the barriers of darkness that sometime seem insurmountable. We need to wake up! We need to have our souls stirred and to be made conscious of our duty. If we fail, either here or on the foreign field, how will the black, white, yellow, and red heathen learn of Christ. We are responsible, whether we go to them or whether we remain in the homeland.

Rules

A lot of people are heard griping about TNC rules. They say this one is too harsh, that one should be done away with, and another has absolutely no value whatsoever.

It should be realized that rules are a part of everyone's life for as long as one lives. No one can take a short cut or even the long way around or turn a corner or cross the street in the hope of avoiding or dodging rules. They are always there. No matter which way one turns or which road he travels he is sure to bump into rules.

Persons who defy rules continuously for the sake of mere defiance cause great wonder. Why do persons disobey and disregard set standards? Rules are made for the benefit of persons, not for the mere sake of inflicting restrictions. Discipline breeds security and adds zest and purpose to one's life. Thus, rules should not be regarded as barriers but as channels through which one can direct his life and thereby achieve the goals of his life with the greatest measure of happiness. Think of the pandemonium and state of bedlam which would exist if rules were not drawn up. Why everyone would be flittering about as butterflies. No planning or organization would manifest itself. Everyone would do as he pleased. This could only breed confusion and maladjusted lives.

Other TNC critics would advise the administering of more rules and not only more of them but a greater degree of firmness in them. Well, of this opinion one cannot be sure. One must first live up to the standards set forth at the present time. In a chapel message, Dr. Chambers stated, as related to our Christian experience, that it is not always more light that we need; but rather that we need to walk in the light that is presently possessed. The same can be said of rules: Live up to the present ones, and self-rules, self-direction, and self-discipline will come as a matter of course. Then there will not be resentment against rules and regulations. They will become a part of your own individual purposes. You then can live in harmony with the very same ideas to which you were at one time so opposed.

The Trev-Echoes staff wishes to express our sympathy to the family of Dr. S. T. Ludwig.

The Church of the Nazarene feels deeply the loss.

NEWS IN REVIEW

WASHINGTON . . .

Americans long promised taxcut is here at last.

Withholding tax drops from 18 to 14 percent and will show up in the pay envelopes early in March.

The new law will be worth 11.5 billion dollars a year to taxpayers, which in short means: more spending money.

WASHINGTON . . .

US postal carriers will have a new weapon to defend themselves from biting dogs this summer.

The Post Office will spend about $90,000 to equip mailmen throughout the nation with the weapon that is effective up to twelve feet. The aerosol cartridge contains a mixture of mineral oil and pepper extract and is reported to be about 85 percent effective. When a postal worker was asked about the remaining 15 percent he summed it up by saying, "They were either poor shots or too slow on the draw."

WASHINGTON . . .

The latest reports from the political races show President Johnson popularity slightly down but still No. 1 man for the Democrats.

On the GOP see-saw, it looks like Senator Barry Goldwater is slowly slipping and Governor Nelson Rockefeller gaining in the popularity poll.

PANAMA . . .

President Johnson says the United States are ready to negotiate the Canal crisis and plans to go to any length to be fair to Panama.

CUBA . . .

Despite Castro's efforts to get rid of Guantanamo, President Johnson says this base will remain a permanent fixture on Castro's island.

C W A REPORT

By
Sara Casdorff

"Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." II Timothy 2:15.

Can you express yourself on the subjects of salvation? If not, struggle until you can. Struggle to re-express some of the truths of God that you know but have never taken the time to express to yourself experientially.

Many times in Christian work you will be called upon to testify or to deal in some way with a person who may be hungry in heart but entirely ignorant of religious terminology. If what you say to them has not been tempered in the struggle of self expression and is only borrowed phraseology, it will be of no use to them. The position we expound is not truly ours until we have made it our own in reality.

After we have the experience, we must learn to express adequately what we believe implicitly to be God's truth and by doing this give God a chance to use our unique expression of truth to help someone else.

Notes From Here & There

SENIOR CLASS . . . The next few weeks will be very busy ones for the Seniors. They will be ordering invitations and being measured for caps and gowns. The Seniors will also be taking exams such as the National Teachers, Graduate Record, and Oral Comprehensives.

The Senior class is also busy making plans for one of the most interesting and fun weeks of the year—TWIRP WEEK.

A NAZARENE MISSELMAN . . . Charles P. Smith, honor graduate in physics from Pasadena College in 1950, has received an honorary doctoral degree from his alma mater. He is chief of the air-to-air development department at the China Lake Naval test station in California and had a leading part in developing the control system for the Sidewinder missile.

CLIO SOCIETY . . . Wednesday, February 12, was an historical date in that it was Abraham Lincoln's birthday. The Clio Society celebrated by going to Dr. Adam's house for dinner. True southern hospitality was shown by Dr. and Mrs. Adams and after the meal business matters were discussed.

On Saturday, February 22, the Society celebrated Washington's birthday with a tour through Belle Meade Mansion.

MENDELL TAYLOR TOUR . . . Dr. Mendell Taylor, Nazarene seminary dean, has been granted permission to visit Nazarene work in the Philippines, Formosa, Japan, India, South Africa, the Near East and Italy, during his sabbatical leave starting in January, 1965 . . . N.I.S.

JUNIOR CLASS . . . The class with more in '64 strikes again!—A project is to be completed this quarter for the chapel—watch for it! . . . A luncheon is scheduled for March 9. Speaker will be Dr. Mendell Taylor, who will be in town for a revival at First Church.

The C.W.A. has agreed to turn over the tract box in the Administration Building Basement to the Junior Class. We welcome this chance to boost the spirit of T.N.C. and further the gospel. These tracts are yours for the taking but please, select them thoughtfully and use them prayerfully.

LOOKING TOWARD PORTLAND . . . Nazarenes had reserved more than 1,800 rooms by early February for the 16th general assembly to be held in Portland, Oregon in June. These reservations had been made through the housing office of the Chamber of Commerce. About 3,000 rooms have been promised. . . N.I.S.

Why?

Have you ever asked yourself the question "why"? Why do things work out like they do? Why did God permit sin in this world of ours? Why do we have to always struggle against doing the easy thing, like following the crowd?

These thoughts and many others similar to them have crossed most of our minds sometime in our lives when things become particularly rough. When someone loses someone near and dear to them, they usually ask themselves why did this have to happen to me?

The only way one can explain why the tragedies happen is that God is giving us a chance to try to prove our worthiness to someday enter his kingdom and abide with him forever. The Lord said that the only way we can reach our Eternal home in glory is through putting our complete trust and faith in him.

After all, this is a small thing for Him to ask after what he did for us at Calvary. Look at the hardships that the Christians of Paul's time went through in the name of Christ. In this light most of our problems are, after all, small and trifling.

So when we are tempted to ask ourselves why we have hardships in our everyday life, let us remember that we must keep trusting God, and we will be stronger Christians because of them.

—Dovie Jean Conner

From Chatty's Nutshell

Wow! Have we made a discovery! All that you have to do to find out "the latest" is to manage to sneak in on one of the gab sessions in the dorms. Herman and Hershel sit outside of the windows and listen, while I scamper in and hide under a chair, couch, or whatever I can find. This way, we don't miss out on a thing; for after we leave we compare notes. Everyone said that if I came to college I would get educated, but I had no idea. . . . !! This system proves very effective as you will see in the next few paragraphs. Dennis Orner, how is your car faring? After all that crowd you took out to eat, why it's a wonder that the poor thing is still in one piece. Someone told me that the back seat was really bogged down. Nancy Clemens seems to have a special reason for going to First Church. She's always liked it, but lately she really loves it. Could it be the surprises that are hidden in coats? Kay Wills, we heard that you've been making the rounds lately, and I don't mean as the nightwatchman. Speaking of night, Janet and Fredia, have you two been carrying on any more conversations in your sleep? The last one was pretty interesting. Dick Bailey, Why did you keep looking so embarrassed out at Shoney's the other day? Was it because the waitress found out that you were a good geography teacher? June Riddle, do you always scream when you go through the door of McKay, or was it Roger Costa and his pranks that caused the yell? Herman said it sounded like someone was meeting Dracula for the first time. We are all glad that the new women's dormitory is finally completed, and the girls are really happy to be "in." They have all been rushing around, buying curtains, bedspreads, throw rugs, lamps, etc. I hope they all found exactly what they wanted. Soon, everyone will be settled, and the dorm life will be back to normal. The girls will have more room to study in, sleep in, and keep their junk in. I hope Mrs. Orndoff will soon be settled in her new apartment, so I can go visit her and get some information about what goes on in the dorm. Talking about rooms and roommates and things like that reminds me that Hershel has another question, and this one goes to Carol Richardson. Carol, did you know that your roommate, Sidney, has a great knowledge of the German language? If anyone doesn't believe this, just ask Sidney to sing. Larry Knight, you have a habit that I wish you would teach Fred Bates. It is the habit of blushing. He needs to know how in case he gets caught in any more embarrassing situations. He can blush instead of fanning himself. Well, I must get busy and pack my belongings, for it is time for me to move to my new tree home. See you at the next gab session, but you won't see me. I'll be hiding somewhere. And don't be surprised if a little squirrel steps up to you one day and says "Smile, you're in Chatty's Column."

Your nut-lovin' friend,

Two Dreamers

He came to class early just so he could see her. He dropped into a chair about halfway back on the left side. He glanced over the room when he came in. She was not here yet. He looked at his watch. Seven fifty-five. The bell would ring in a little while. He looked at the bulletin board and thought of her. It was cold out. She would probably wear the brown coat, the one he liked. She would walk up the steps, hurrying in the cold, then stop with the reflection in the glass of the door and brush the snow from her hair. She was small. If she stood beside him, she would hardly come to his shoulders. She always carried a large notebook. Her tiny hands would peek out of her coat sleeves, holding the notebook as if it were something precious. He liked everything about her but most of all he liked her nose. It was placed in just the right place and was short and pretty.

The room was slowly filling. Maybe she was not coming today. Then he heard her footsteps. Quickly he opened his book and stared at it as if he were lost. She thought about him all the way up the steps. He would already be in the room. He was always there before her, sitting somewhere on the left side. He would be wearing his jacket, and his broad shoulders would be leaning over his text book. She would walk by, and he would never look up, he would never notice her.

She thought of how nice it would be to just sit by him and talk to him, about nothing important—just talk. Maybe they would talk about the cold weather and the snow and how much fun it would be to go ice skating. And when he was not looking, she could watch the way his lips moved when he talked and the way they turned up at the corners when he smiled. She walked down the hall and past the drinking fountain, then into the room. She walked by him, but he did not say hello; he did not even look at her. She sat down in the opposite corner of the room, and took off her coat, then looked at the cracks on the desk in front of her. AND SHE KNEW HE WOULD NEVER SAY HELLO.

Increased capital will make such buildings as the proposed physical education building a reality. In the teacher market, dollars count. Next year Trevecca will add from seven to ten new faculty members, several of them possessing the Ph.D degree. Increased funds will not only pay these professors but also will provide a means of strengthening the ties of our other faculty members. People are begging for a commercial department, a language laboratory, a speech department. All these will be possibilities with added income.

Still some will claim that their state school is cheaper. This may be the case sometimes. But no state institution will be able to offer what Trevecca will offer. A Christian education is vital for the youth of our church and of our nation. Students of TNC will be able to gain knowledge and still be in the midst of a Christian atmosphere.

As an added point, three other Nazarene colleges are raising tuition this next year. Trevecca still will have the lowest rates of any.

When you hear someone make a rash statement like the ones mentioned above, remember that the individual has either not thought about it, or else he is a chronic complainer.

Trev-Echoes Senior Personality

Barbara Beckner

Since transferring from Radford College in Radford, Virginia, two years ago, Barbara Beckner has held several offices at Trevecca. During her junior year she was vice-president of the math club. She has also been a member of the science club, the Student Education Association, the Honor Society, and the Virginia Club. She is presently the assistant editor of the DARDA, the Senior Class treasurer, and a dorm counselor.

Barbara's home is Salem, Virginia. She has two younger sisters.

She enjoys reading, sketching, and being a spectator at football games. Her major is Education-psychology and her minor is math.

After graduation Barbara plans to remain in Nashville and teach in the Metropolitan school system.

Her favorite scripture verses are Proverbs 3:5-6: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart, and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all the ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths."

Barbara says, "I'm glad that I can say I'm a child of the King. I want to always be found in the center of His will."

"During the two years I have been here, I have grown to love and appreciate Trevecca. Having attended a State college, I can see clearly the benefits of attending a Christian college. The many revivals, special services, and the daily chapel hour have been an inspiration to my life, and have drawn me closer to the Lord."

Description of a Parakeet

By HOWARD MELTON

A parakeet is a pet bird that winds himself around the entity of your life and pulls on the strings of your heart. He becomes another member of your family if you give him half the chance. A person is never alone with one. His consistent pecking at the door of your heart will break down the toughest opposition and gain admittance. He asks for little consideration but shows appreciation for the smallest attention. Such is our pet parakeet, "Chipper."

He gets into our hair, food, and pocketbook but the most important place he occupies is our hearts. He does not seem to have any habits that bother us; on the contrary they are contagious. When things go wrong, he listens to our woes with an understanding and assuring silence.

We can trust him to keep secrets. Somehow he remembers only what we want him to and forgets all that we desire him to. His emotions are easily stirred but they are always justified. When he wants food or water he stirs around and seeks our attention with a distressed sound which reminds us that all he gets comes from us. He expresses his appreciation by his unforgettable and indescribable ways for even the slightest thoughtfulness.

He has an appreciation for good

THE HEIGHT OF ECONOMY

All-Stars Elected

Five Alpha girls were elected to the women's all-star team. Heading the list of stars is Beverly Moore, who was named most valuable player of the year. Rounding out the all-star squad were four members of the champion Alphas, one player for the Betas and one player from the Delta squad.

BEVERLY MOORE

Voted most valuable player in the league, Bev led her Alpha squad in rebounding and did equally well when playing the forward position. Now in her sophomore year she is a repeater from last year's team. Bev served as co-captain of the Alpha team.

JEAN CRANSHAW

Making the all-star team for the second straight year, Jean again placed high among the scoring leaders. Playing with the league leading Alphas she plays either the forward or guard position with skill and has proven her defensive ability by stealing the ball.

NANCY SWAFFORD

Nancy, a senior, was elected to the all-star team for the third time. Serving as co-captain of her Alpha team she was considered the best free throw shooter in the league. Nancy jumps from the center position and was especially outstanding as an outside shooter.

MARY BLUME

Playing guard for the league leading Alphas, Mary has proven her defensive ability by continually blocking the shots of the opposing teams. Mary, who is in her sophomore year, was also a leader in the rebounding department.

PHYLLIS HUSTON

Phyllis led the scoring parade with seventeen points per game to be the highest scorer in the league. She controlled the Alphas fast break and was considered the fastest player in the league. The highpoint of her career came when she collected twenty-four points against the Deltas.

NEVA HUDSON

Playing forward on the Delta team she averaged more than ten points per game to become the second high scorer in the league. Now in her freshman year, she was the all-round player for her Delta squad and turned in a good performance on the free throw line.

JANET VERNON

Holding down the center position for her third place Beta team, she led her team in scoring and rebounding with thirty-five points. With Jan's speed and ability to steal the ball she was a constant threat to her opponents.

Softball Scoop

With March winds, April showers, and May flowers also comes one of America's favorite pastimes — softball. This year's softball outlook offers an exciting spring in the sports field at T.N.C.

The Betas will be out to defend their title and try to make a clean sweep of the sports lineup here. Although profiting in the draft selections, the defending champs may be hit hard as a result of graduation and work.

Although losing their star pitcher, the Alphas must be considered contenders. Several freshmen are expected to strengthen the team.

The Deltas could vault from the cellar to the top position this year. With a veteran-loaded team, hitting and pitching are expected to be their strengths.

Basketball Scoop

By LARRY KNIGHT

ALPHA 86; DELTA 61

Led by Big Ed Sisson's record breaking 48 points performance, the Alphas ran over the Deltas 86-61. Ed's 48 pts. tops his own record of 45 which he set near mid-season. Delta forward Jan Forman posted 27 points to lead the Deltas but didn't get enough support from the other five. A main factor in this loss for the Deltas was their playing in the absence of Jim Hendershot and Wayne Dollar. The loss finds the Delta team slowly slipping towards the cellar.

BETA 112; DELTA 92

The mighty Beta Five ran up and down the hardwood to the tune of a 112-92 win over the Deltas. The victory marked the second time the Betas have run over the century mark this year. Led by Lloyd Manning's 32 and Everett Hanner's 26, the Betas won their 12th consecutive roundball contest of the season, losing none. Jim Hendershot rang up 43 big points, all for a losing cause, and Jan Forman basketed 30. Even Trevecca basketball has become professional, with its big scores.

ALPHA 105; DELTA 91

A very sharp shooting, sharp looking Alpha team rolled up its third triumph of the season by winning over the Deltas 105-91. Ed Sisson led the winners with 42 points and was helped greatly by teammates Dennis Orner and Les Byington who netted 25 and 23 respectively. For the losers, Jan Forman poured 37 points through the hoop while Jim Hendershot posted 33. It was almost a runaway contest for the 2nd place Alphas, as they ran over 100 for the first time this season.

Jim Knight

With little trouble at all, the 1963 All-Star Basketball team rolled over the Alumni squad, 89-52. The game was played at First Church before a bulging crowd of 150 noisy youngsters, who were there for Nazarene Youth Night.

Height, speed, and general physical fitness played an important part in the victory for the younger stars. They were not seriously threatened after the first three minutes and vaulted to a 48-22 halftime lead.

Four Trevecca All-Stars finished in double figures. Jim Hendershot paced all scorers with 25 points. Others in double figures are Jim Knight, Everett Hanner, and Ed Sisson, with 18, 19, and 13 points respectively.

Wendell Poole and Gene Shelton led the Alumni with 16 and 12 respectively.

One idea which has been made known recently is the desire of making the All-Star vs. Alumni game an annual affair of considerable importance. Many schools have a Homecoming week, and many interesting activities occur. The week would be one which would be a highlight for both students and alumnus. I think steps will be taken in the near future to provide such a program.

Seeing the new women's dormitory has made me think all the more of a new physical education building. Some day soon I hope to walk proudly into the gymnasium and watch a good game. It almost gives me chills to think about it. Progress on the fund-raising is good. The Booster's Club plan is bringing in $3.75 per member per year toward the building.

Second team All Star members are Everett Hanner, Don Hale, Larry Knight, Lester Byington, and Jim Brackett.

Making the second team on the ladies All Star squad are: Eugenia Cloud, Fredia Weaver, Sara Hill, Ruth Downing, Sandra Murphree, and Glenda Harper.
