DR. PARROTT, SPEECH

PROFESSOR NEXT QUARTER

Dr. Leslie Parrott, presently the pastor of the Nazarene church in Kirkland, Washington, has recently been engaged as a professor at Trevecca. He will begin his work in this capacity Winter Quarter.

A graduate of Olivet Nazarene College, he received his Ph.D. degree from the University of Michigan in educational administration with emphasis at the higher level.

Before his present pastorate in Kirkland, Washington, he held a pastorate in Flint, Michigan. Before this he was dean of students at Northwest Nazarene College in Nampa, Idaho. Also he taught at one of the state colleges in Michigan.

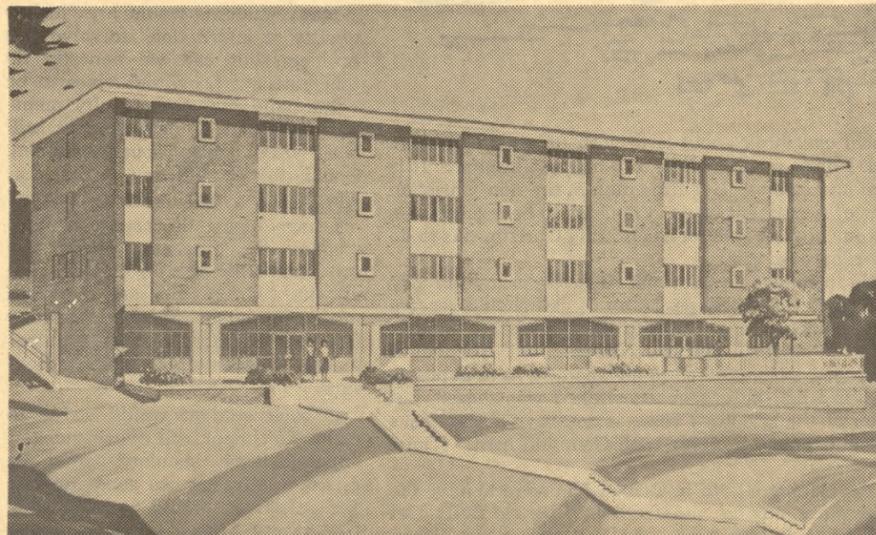

Dr. Parrott is presently the Research Director for a Commission on Education for the Church of the Nazarene and was at Trevecca several weeks ago making a survey as a part of this project.

He is the son of Dr. A. L. Parrott, one time president of Olivet Nazarene College and now in the evangelistic field.

Dr. Parrott will be teaching speech and some other courses.

Senator Kefauver Telegraphs

Dr. Mackey of Loan for Dorm

The administration expects this dormitory to be completed by fall, 1963.

"Community Facilities Adm. has approved loan for $300,000 for construction of women's residence hall. Best wishes." —Estes Kefauver, U.S.S.

"Have just been advised by White House that CFA Loan for $300,000 has been approved for the construction of a women's residence hall on Trevecca campus." — J. Carlton Loser, M.C.

These two statements were the contents of two telegrams received by Dr. Mackey November 26 regarding Trevecca's new women's residence hall after the Housing and Home Finance Agency of the federal government approved the application for the dormitory.

The three-story building will accommodate 102 women and a head resident. Each room will have double occupancy and there will be one bath to every two rooms. The project will provide a parlor next to the main floor entrance, with sitting rooms on the second and third floors, and a kitchen area and multi-purpose room in the basement. The exterior will be of face brick and precast stone. The rear of the building will face a stone terrace at the basement level.

The next step includes bids from general contractors after which construction will begin. Already tests for rock have been made in the area between McKay and Gibbs Hall where the new dormitory will be located. Gibbs Hall will be razed to provide room for the new structure.

The goal for completion of the residence has been set for Fall Quarter of 1963. Dougherty, Miller, and Patton of Nashville are the architects for the project.

Stuco Reports

by Jerry Appleby

Interest seems to be at a peak on this year's council as shown in the good attendance. Out of the eleven meetings thus far, there has been perfect attendance in eight meetings and only one absence in three meetings. As a result many things have been accomplished in the interest of the student body.

Replies are being received now from letters written to student council presidents of all the other Nazarene colleges. Through this we are learning the workings and activities of the Student Council of each of our sister colleges. This has proven to be an interesting and revealing study.

The letter sent to the Administrative Committee concerning the class and club meeting days after chapel (explained in the last issue's article) has been returned after being studied by the entire faculty with the suggestion that instead of dismissing chapel at 11:30 as requested, it be dismissed at 11:40. This plan is to be put on trial basis starting next quarter. We urge cooperation from the student body as non-cooperation will result in a discontinuation of this plan.

Your cooperation is important to the Student Council. We can bring items up for consideration by the faculty, but they will be of no avail if the student body will not cooperate. One objection of the Student Council's plan for extension of hours to 11:00 and 9:50 on Friday and Saturday night, respectively, is that the students are not cooperating with the dormitory hours now. It was pointed out that the plan of students to be in the rooms at 10:30 was just on a trial basis and was to a large extent disregarded by students. Let's cooperate with the present plan and show the faculty that we are able to handle more privileges.

In the past the Student Council has decided all extra point requests at one final meeting. This year we voted to change this and have a meeting at the beginning of each quarter to take care of requests for the previous quarter, and then tally the results at the final meeting. We hope this will be a better method and aid our selection of "Class and Club of the Year."

At present the dusty condition of the Tidwell Parking Lot is under investigation. Estimates for oiling or paving the lot are being checked by the council. We hope some plan can be worked out for better parking conditions.

Messiah Tonight

Music Club Presents Oratorio

Diligent practice goes into making the "Messiah" a highlight of the Christmas season.

The Music Club will present the Messiah by George Frederick Handel tonight at 8:00 in the McClurkan auditorium. This renowned oratorio was presented at Trevecca last year during the Christmas season.

A chorus of approximately eighty voices from the A Cappella choir, Ladies' Glee Club, Men's Glee Club as well as several members of Nashville church choirs will perform. This year's Messiah will be directed by Professor Ramon Unruh and accompanied by Miss Barbara McClain, pianist, and by Miss Jeanne Thrasher, organist.

Four alumni and one student of Trevecca will be the soloists. They are Mrs. Westbrook, soprano; Miss Pierce, alto; Mr. Hage and Mr. Van Hook, tenors; and Mr. Whittington, bass. Mr. Van Hook, senior, is a student at Trevecca. Mrs. Westbrook, Mr. Hage and Mr. Whittington were soloists last year also.

Mr. Hage will sing the recitative "Comfort Ye My People" and the air "Every Valley Shall be Exalted." Mr. Whittington will sing "Behold I Tell You a Mystery" and "The Trumpet Shall Sound."

Among the numbers Mrs. Lois Westbrook will perform are the reci-tatives "There Were Shepherds Abiding in the Field" and "And Suddenly There Was With the Angel."

The combined choirs will present seven songs. They are "And the Glory of the Lord," "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings to Zion," "For Unto Us a Child Is Born," "Glory to God," "Behold the Lamb of God," and "Hallelujah."

N.N.S. Rates

Paper, 1961-62

The TREV-ECHOES publication received a rating of "B" from the Collegiate Division of The National Newspaper Service which is affiliated with National School Yearbook Association, for the school year of 1961-62. The rating "B" means "Good to very Good" in relation to other newspapers in the same class. Congratulations are extended to Charlotte Porter, last year's editor, and her staff.

TREV-ECHOES is now a member of the Associated Collegiate Press.

Mackey, Adams

Attends S. A. C. S.

Dr. Mackey and Dr. Adams recently attended the sixty-seventh annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools November 26-29 in Dallas, Texas. This meeting was held under operation of the new constitution for the first year.

During the convention the assembly adopted a new set of standards for the Association which will go into effect over a period of several years for the colleges. Emphasis is being placed more on the qualitative rather than the quantitative standards. For example, libraries of colleges are no longer required to meet a certain budget but yet the quality of materials in them must come up to the standards of the Association.

Also during the convention the Mississippi institutions were placed on probation because of the turmoil in the state this year regarding education.

Other legislation included the Association incorporating itself.

The Association announced the admittance of three new colleges and some other specialized institutions into the Association. The closest of these in location to Trevecca is Cumberland College in Lebanon.

The convention included general sessions for three nights and one morning as well as specialized meetings. Dr. Mackey and Dr. Adams attended all the general meetings. Specialized meetings attended by them were the Commission on Secondary Schools and the College Delegate Assembly on Commission of Colleges by Dr. Mackey, and the Conference of Academic Deans and Meeting of College and University Registrars by Dr. Adams. Both Dr. Mackey and Dr. Adams attended the Annual Conference of Church-Related Colleges in the South.

During the convention the Admissions Committee and the Executive Committee were meeting in secret.

On November 2, Dr. Mackey and Dr. Adams met with the sub-committee in Atlanta who in turn make a report to the Admissions and Executive Committees that meet during the Southern Association meeting.

If the report is approved, the Admissions Committee will send a Study Committee to Trevecca, and if they approve, they will then report to the Admissions and Executive Committee.

AND ON EARTH PEACE, GOOD WILL TOWARD MEN

The best Christmas wish I can think about is to wish for peace on earth and good will toward men. I have no objections to a merry Christmas. It is certainly better than gloom and sadness. Even the man in the non-Christian world puts on quite a show of merriment or what appears to be a good time, but for Trevecca students, our highest level of celebrating Christmas is to do what Jesus did while he was here on earth.

My desire for you to come to college was not half as strong as my urgency for you to stay with it until you finish college. Many of you should resolve this Christmas time to go beyond college, climb to the top of "Mt. Educational Realization." Most of the students that have dropped out of school at Christmas time, who in later years have talked to me about it, have expressed regret and would say, "If I had only gone on while I was there." Let Christmas time remind you of the scripture verse which says, "And Jesus increased in wisdom, and stature, and in favor with God, and man." (Luke 2:52).

I am interested in your developing a faith in God and a desire to have the spirit of Christ. While others are singing "Jingle Bells," "Jingle Bells," let us go about doing good, singing in our hearts the song the angels sang: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

WHAT CAN WE DO TO CREATE MORE SCHOOL SPIRIT?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Guest columnist is Gene Smith.

In the minds of most Americans, college and sports are almost synonymous. When graduates are discussing their college days, one of the inevitable subjects raised is that of sports in college. What about Trevecca and sports?

In theory, the T.T.A.'s program is pictured as a well organized, highly enthusiastic, all-school intra-mural program, with each event being a highlight. However, in practice, Trevecca's athletic program is not quite so faultless or so commendable.

The Trevecca Athletic Association has made great progress in the last few years by organizing definite societies that would form teams for competition against each other. In just the last four years, the winning teams have been distributed through the societies, moving from the Alphas to the championship Betas, and now to the Deltas who are currently enjoying top honors. A more recent innovation and a great step forward is the introduction to "flag" football that was initiated this fall. This has made the games more exciting and provided tougher competition for the teams. Last fall, eight man football was introduced at Trevecca and has been accepted and acclaimed a definite progress.

With the T. A. A. making great strides, it is then conceivable that performance will soon reach the level of the theory of the program. The aforementioned changes have been experienced by the graduating class of 1963. Let us then look optimistically at what might be the T. A. A. program by 1968 or 1970.

It is not at all impossible to plan a physical education program for Trevecca, and with this as a foundation let us begin to build this new program of sports. An increase in enrollment would naturally require more societies to be formed, thus making competition higher. This would result in a systematic arrangement of choosing individuals for each society rather than everybody just joining a society helter-skelter and with no fairness to any.

With more societies, this would call for more equipment and a program on a higher scale. With this possible, then the teams would be uniformed and each society assigned a color for these uniforms. This, of course, would add color and excitement to each event and also increase spectator support, which in turn would demand organized cheering sections and cheerleaders. A better or improved athletic field would be required with facilities for the spectators and dressing rooms for the players. This then might suggest the possibility of a gymnasium erected on the eastern portion of the campus and to this we say, why not? This is not inconceivable in the next eight or ten years. Trevecca is a growing college, and we can and will grow in all departments and the athletic program need not take a back seat to the other phases of college life.

T. A. A., you are on the right track. These are not just dreams, but the actual possibilities of a growing organization. Of course, this will involve considerable expense, but with the entire student body, the faculty, and the alumni all behind this project, who knows what great things are in store for the T. A. A.? Let's all work to do more for sports at Trevecca, and we will have an athletic program that will be a credit to our institution.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

There has been much discussion about the quality of Trevecca's academic program. Why is only one-third of the freshman class of four years ago graduating this year? Why is there not a greater increase each year in enrollment? Could entrance requirements be more selective? Do students drop out because they are not college material or do they transfer to schools with a higher academic program?

I understand that of 486 students enrolled at TNC only fourteen make a 2.5 average consistently. This is less than three per cent of students. I also understand that the average TNC student rates below the national norm on standardized tests such as the freshman entrance tests. However, statistics to prove this are not available to students at this time.

Many students would cry "higher quality of instruction" to solve this problem, but can we honestly do this until we prove ourselves to be better students? One faculty member says that a good student will learn without classroom instruction. Could this be further proof that learning, not instruction, is lacking?

I have heard the comment from students that freshman courses are refresher courses. If so, where are all the "A's"? Only six freshmen made the honor roll each quarter last year. Higher entrance requirements or more study seems necessary.

If each student would strive to make the honor roll every quarter, our scholastic standard could be raised to attract more good students and selectivity would naturally follow. Could higher scholastic averages be the student's contribution to accreditation? Wake up! TNC student, and buckle down. This is one project for which the administration will have no objections.

Sincerely,
Phyllis Buss

Dear Editor:

I feel special credit is due to Professor Unruh for the wonderful way he has directed the choir this year.

Having already presented a musical program in two chapel services and doing an excellent job each time, both he and the members of the A Cappella Choir deserve recognition for their services rendered.

GOD OFFERS GIFT

Christmas, as it is usually celebrated, shows a strange mixture of pagan custom and modern fabrication with the central idea of the advent of "God with us." The devotional message of the season is that of Gloria In Excelsis and peace on earth. This commemoration of the coming of the Messiah is in the most profound sense a memorial to the complete givingness of God. Emphasis on that Gift of Gifts was not on the gift as a token of love, but that love was here completely emptied. Now has Glory come to earth and now Peace is among us. This is Excellence come to earth.

What then is the spirit of the Christ-Worship season? The spirit is that of Jubilate Deo, joy in the glory and majesty of God's mercy and goodness toward man. Every Christian should in this season set aside the trappings of the ego seeking, pagan holiday world, and in its place worship the "God of complete givingness."

END THE DRAFT IN '63

"For two decades the United States of America has had on its statute books legislation providing for military conscription . . . We are deeply troubled by the general indifference to the infringement of individual rights and freedom . . . urge that voluntary methods of recruiting military manpower be developed. We affirm traditional Methodist opposition to any system of peacetime military training. We appeal to the United States to give bold leadership looking toward the universal abolition of peacetime conscription by . . . the United Nations." (Methodist Discipline, Par., 2024) "In harmony with this position of the Methodist Church and in belief that peacetime conscription is fundamentally wrong, I believe that our draft law should be ended in June, 1963." (Rev. H. D. Bollinger, Methodist minister who serves on the Advisory Committee of "End the Draft in '63.")

Is the move to end the draft primarily sponsored by humanitarian, church, and political groups, or could there be an anti-democratic undercurrent involved, such as communist, which would be detrimental to the welfare of our country?

THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR ADVANCEMENT OF COMMUNIST POLICY . . . is at it again. Although Atlanta, Ga. has had the most successful desegregation of any city in the South, this seemingly Communist backed pressure group once again bares its teeth and shows its utter disregard for the laws and wishes of the majority. Mr. K (who? M L K) wants Atlanta to speed up desegregation! Why? Are there too many people in the world for him?

The INFALLIBLE Pope . . . is ill! "We are at the start of our 82nd year," he said. "Will we arrive at the end of it?"

PHONE CALLS LOOK CHEAP . . . when compared to the $1.20 it will cost to buy a book of twenty-four regular stamps. Although the rates are increasing, for the second time in this Administration (?), the Postal Department will actually be going farther in debt! (Postal workers are receiving a major wage increase.) . . . sure wish Dr. Mackey would go up to Washington and teach them how to run the Department economically.

A MR. C. T. FANCA, JR., OF HANDBORO, MISS., filed a suit against the Federal Government charging that he was stopped from handing out copies of The Bill of Rights and speaking against the government's actions in the Ole Miss crisis. He said this violated his constitutional rights. One Question: Since when did Southerners have Constitutional rights?

CWA REPORT

By

Let us take a look at those who less fortunate than we—those men and women at the Tennessee State Penitentiary.

The Christian Workers have the privilege of visiting and taking the Gospel to these every other Sunday. A visit to one of the services would show the onlooker a mass of blank and empty faces. What would you do or say to these inmates to make an impression on them? Only a power higher than we can know the heartaches and distresses that have caused these faces to be so shallow, and only His hand can paint a new picture on their face and transform their heart.

Many of the prisoners are behind bars for stealing, forgery, and even murder.

As a result of our efforts, one woman was saved in her room. She was released November 21 the day before Thanksgiving. Truly her Thanksgiving was one of genuine thanks. She now faces a life of readjustment to society. From the words of the captain, Syble Jones, "She has really been a tremendous blessing to us, and we know that the Lord will bless her and use her wherever she goes. Remember this lady in your prayers that God will give her strength to stand for him."

The inmates also participate in the service. Recently a ladies trio has been formed and sings often.

This should challenge our hearts to stand behind the CWA. Results can be seen.

Remember—All Out For Souls!

There is still some doubt as to who our Student Council lecturer will be. John Glenn has been contacted by Dr. Mackey and we are awaiting his reply. Our hopes are high, but if he is not available a list of other capable men to fill the position has been compiled. They include one of the top three engineers in the nation, chief chemist for Du Pont, and a member of the National Parole Board.

The Student Council lecturer for the year '63-'64 will be Howard Hamlen. He has already been contacted and has accepted the invitation.

Please remember our Suggestion Boxes which will soon be up for your use.

Jingle Bells

Are you in the Christmas Spirit, yet? My prescription is used by thousands yearly at downtown stores, shopping plazas, drug stores, and anywhere you can buy that last minute Christmas gift. . . . LAST MINUTE CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

Arrive at your destination and remove from your pocket the long list of aunts, uncles, cousins, and enemies (roommates) who are supposed to be your best friends because it is the Christmas season. Your first aim is to find a department store. A large sign two blocks away flashes on and off "Harvey's is your Santa Claus." Battling your way to a cross walk, fighting to cross the street, being struck by an auto, and laying helplessly in the street while crowds of people flock over you is enough to make anyone give up and flee to a safe refuge. But you don't give up so easy. . . . it is Christmas.

Finally you reach the entrance of the department store and struggle toward the revolving doors. After three attempts, finally reaching the inside, but realizing the three pound salami that is in your arms belongs to the lady outside who is desperately screaming "Policeee," your foresight tells you to return to the outside world.

You are in the store . . . phone booth . . . safety. . . and you will be able to meditate in peace over your shopping list. Little cousin Charlie is on the top of the list . . . the little monster. You must buy him something; but remember it is Christmas, so enter the front battle lines once again with joy to the world in your heart and locate the toy department. Turning and facing the crowd you scramble to the escalators and try desperately to reach the top . . . After ten minutes of torment and struggle you realize you were trying to go UP a DOWN escalator.

Tiring in defeat and heading for the elevators, you find that no one else is in the car. But it only takes a second for your mirage to disappear when suddenly you are pushed to the rear by an elderly fat lady. Finally, after what seemed like years, she leaves the car and you are able to pull your body out of the wall only to find yourself in the twenty-fifth floor. . .

Remember, it is Christmas, and after another hour, by miracle only, you reach the toy department, wishing you could be back in the elevator. Kids everywhere. Toys everywhere. Frantic mothers everywhere. Standing in the middle of it all, dazed, you suddenly come to life after being shot in the head by a Sitting Bull arrow. You turn red. You get all choked up inside. But you remember, it is Christmas. . . .

Not too long afterwards you are able to find little Charlie's gift. A toy anti-aircraft gun. It shoots toy shells. It should shoot real ones for the price you pay for it. After the salesgirl gives you the contraption, she tells you to wait in the cashiers line. So you wait and you wait. Finally you reach the end of the line. You went through all this plus standing an hour only to find you are in the Santa Claus line . . . Remember, it is Christmas. . .

By now you are really in the mood, and even more so when Christmas carols come loud and fluently out of a hi-fi speaker next to your ear. There is hope in the world when you hear a voice say "Harvey's will close in five minutes" . . . Joining the stampede for the door, battling fiercely to get through it, feeling the brisk wind sweep across your face as you hit the sidewalk, gives you a warm new feeling of the holiday season. Suddenly you are approached by two gentlemen, one flashing a badge and replying, "Come on bud, did you really think you were going to get away with that box" Little Charlie's gift . . . you forgot to pay for it.

It's Christmas morning and all is quiet in city workhouse except occasional snores from your fellow inmates and CWA workers singing Christmas carols. Christmas, for the first time in years, seems so peaceful and quiet as the defeated Christmas shopper lies stretched out on his bunk behind bars, awaiting his free turkey dinner

Merry Christmas to all, and to all a word of advice . . . to beat the problem of Christmas shopping, simply don't do any SCROOGE

Letter to Santa . . .

Dear Santa, . . . and if you can Santa, please have Dr. Greathouse return that long lost book to the library . . . Very truly, Mrs. Mackey . . . I want you to bring all the fellows in TAA a pair of suspenders. Thank you Santa, Jimmy Stocks . . . and Santa, if you can, well, you know how drafty it is in the winter, and I would appreciate it if you could bring John L. a toupee. Very sincerely, Mrs. Knight . . . and Santa, you don't know my 'bilities to sweeps and cleans de floors, and only, I's would sure 'preciates it if you could have Johnny Parker Sugg hire me to cleans the TREV-ECHOES' office. Your honorables, Weston . . . and Santa, they might call me chicken. but I could sure use a one way ticket to Podunck. Thanks, Lamar . . . and Santa, all I want for Christmas is some material for my hobby. I will leave cookies on the organ for you and your reindeer. Prof. Young . . . and Santa, please bring to all the TNC students a swell Christmas . . . Erbin.

Fashions

By ANN VAN HOOK

With Christmas just around the corner, no doubt everyone is dreaming about what he wants for Christmas. In case you have not decided because you can not think of a luxurious but practical item, may I suggest asking Santa for that beautiful formal of which you have always dreamed; that one which does not have to be worn with a jacket but still does not look antique; that one which is just the color you have always wanted. By now, you must be asking where such a dress can be found.

Well, there are several places. Mrs. Santa Claus probably can make it. All the pattern books carry lovely formal dress patterns. For undesirable bodices, a combination of patterns may be used. Choose a day dress pattern having a bodice which you like and then choose the formal dress pattern having the skirt you like. Combine the two and you have a new and lovely evening dress.

Another place from which Santa may be able to get the dress you want is a company which makes bridesmaids dresses. Quite often these companies make lovely gowns that are within the same price range as other formals.

By getting your formal for Christmas you can avoid the February rush and have the dress you have always wanted. If you plan to get a formal, perhaps you had better send Santa an early letter so that he will have time to get just what you want and make yours a very Merry Christmas.

Did You Know?

. . . that fall quarter final examinations are scheduled for December 12, 13, 14?

All three and five hour 8:00 classes will have their final exams at 8:00 on Wednesday, December 12, and all two and four hour 8:00 classes will have exams at 10:00 Wednesday. Other classes and Chapel will convene as usual on Wednesday. Thursday and Friday classes will have their exams at the regularly scheduled class times except 10:00 classes will have their examinations at 11:00. Only those classes which are having exams will meet on Thursday and Friday.

This system of scheduling final examinations provides more time for relaxation and preparation between exams and less pressure on both students and professors.

. . . that we will be having a two day missionary convention with Dr. George Coulter and two missionary representatives? May God add His blessings as we prepare for this occasion.

. . . that Betty McKay, junior, has recently been asked to speak to high school juniors and seniors from all over the state of Tennessee, as to her feeling about beverage alcohol and the conditions as they exist in India in regard to this subject? This is sponsored by the United Tennessee League and will be held December 8 and 9. Since India has a prohibition law, it was thought that it would be helpful for the young people of Tennessee to know how the law was working as well as the general drinking practices of the people of India.

The convention is entitled "Operation Speak-Up" and Betty will be speaking December 9 at Hume-Fogg High School Auditorium here in Nashville.

CLUB AND CLASS MEMOS

When the clock struck one on Friday afternoon, October 27th the Freshmen began their week-end visit with Mr. Clean. Jim Knight did an excellent job of supervising the work.

Among the many things the Freshmen did to help make Trevecca campus clean are as follows: cleaned the Venetian blinds in the chapel, washed the windows in the chapel, washed the light fixtures and windows in McClurkan lobby, cleaned the trophy case, raked leaves, and cleaned out the fish pond.

By five o'clock, Saturday afternoon the Freshmen were dirty but Trevecca had a nice, clean, beautiful campus.

The Sophomore class sponsored the sale of "Trevecca Nazarene College" decals, which are a means of creating publicity for our college.

The attractive decals are two deck purple and white stickers which are most usually seen on back windows of automobiles.

At 5:00 on Saturday evening, December 1, the Junior Class got together for a spaghetti supper at College Hill Church of the Nazarene. The Italian spaghetti was prepared by Mrs. Costa and was up to the usual high quality for which she is known.

On Nov. 13, the Clio Society sponsored a Founders' Day luncheon and had as their guests Dr. C. E. Hardy, Rev. S. W. Strickland and Uncle Bobby Sullivan, men who have contributed much to our rich heritage here at TNC. In the interview following the dinner, these men told the group about their experiences in the early days of the school and gave us some glimpses into the personal qualities of Rev. J. O. McClurkan that made him great. These personal glimpses from Rev. McClurkan's friends were recorded on tape, and this tape will be presented to the Mackey Library.

On Friday night, Nov. 16, the Clio Society presented a play, "The Breaking of Bread", starring two of our outstanding Thespians, Pvt. Leslie Farthing, U.S. Army, and Capt.

Winston Wilson, CSA. The story of Billy Yauk and Johnny Reb, meeting on the field of battle, was both humorous and sad, and their final sharing of the loaf of bread symbolized the unity of our great land. Special music was furnished by members of the Music Club.

The Science Club had a luncheon with Professor James F. Key, graduate assistant of mathematics at Peabody College, speaking on the topic "Why I Believe in God." Professor Key related to us the reasons why he turned from atheism to the full realization that there is a God through his studies in physics. He emphasized the importance of a living faith in God as our Creator and our Saviour.

From his studies of the seven major religions of the world he concluded that, "Christianity offers man the highest dignity."

Recently the Math Club visited the Processing Department of the First American National Bank of Nashville to observe the IBM 1401 Data Processing System in action.

The IBM 1401 is capable of performing many different types of operations including the following: Add, subtract, multiply, divide, edit printed data, skip paper automatically, selectively stack cards, make logical decisions, make comparisons, read and punch cards, read and write magnetic tape, rearrange data, and prepare reports.

In one minute we observed the IBM 1401 perform the following operations: 4200 multiplications, 8400 additions, 12600 move operations, 600 comparisons, 600 logical decisions and print 600 lines giving the squares and square roots of all whole numbers from 1 to 4200. The speed and accuracy of this system is amazing.

In February the Speech Club will be presenting "The Hoosier Schoolmaster," a three-act play with twenty-six characters.

Thursday, November 15, four members of the Speech Club were judges at the monthly high school speech contest. Roslyn Marlin and Dick Bailey judged original speaking, and Sharron Marlin and Bobby Henderson judged extemporaneous speaking.

In December, the members of the club will have the opportunity to judge one-act plays presented by various high schools.

Lineman, Back, All-stars Chosen

Eddie Patterson and Barney Baggett have received the special honors of Lineman and Back of the Year in an election by the football players of the T.A.A. Patterson and Baggett were chosen from a field of eight ALL STARTS last Thursday. Others elected to the All Star first team are Lester Byington, Ray Byrd, Wayne Dollar, Jim Knight, Hugh Smith, and Jimmy Stocks.

Patterson, who stands 6'1" and weighs 205, was highly praised for his fierce blocking and rugged defensive play. It was often his duty to lead the interference for Beta runners. Patterson received the most votes, and was therefore named captain of the team.

Baggett was tabbed as the shiftest back in the league, and many times he combined his fine running talents with his pass-catching abilities to bring victory for the champion Deltas. Baggett showed his well-rounded playing many times as he intercepted several enemy passes and constantly came up with the opponents' "flags" throughout the campaign.

Byrd, Dollar, and Stocks were other backs chosen to the "Dream Team." Byrd led the league in scoring, compiling 116 points. He was highly responsible for the late-season success of the Alphas.

Dollar quarterbacked the Deltas to the championship with his excellent passing. He was credited with tossing 45 TD passes during the 22 game schedule, besides scoring eighty-eight points himself.

Stocks, a repeater from last year's All Star team, was another fine quarterback. He was considered a fine passer and runner who always kept cool and collected.

The remaining line positions went to Byington, Knight, and Smith. Byington, who was Lineman of the Year in 1961, played both center and end on offense and held the line-backer post on defense for the Alphas.

Teaming with Byington to lead the Alpha line was Smith. Smith's expert leadership made him a great asset to his team. He played both the line and the backfield and was always ready to win. Hugh was also a repeater to the All Star team.

Knight, who played both offensive and defensive end for the Betas, displayed his pass catching ability throughout the season. However, toward the end of the season he came to life more than ever and made some of those impossible catches which led to several Beta victories.

Named to the second team were Richard Bailey, Roger Costa, Mike Golden, Dave Jones, Sherrill Nielsen, Roy Oliver, Jim Tabers, and Weston Wilson.

The All Stars will meet the Alumni team in a game tomorrow at 9:00 A.M.

Sports Editor's Note: If you wonder why the most outstanding player never came from the Delta's squad it is because it would be too hard to choose just one player who was more outstanding than the rest of those Delta boys.

Win Eleven Games

Delta squad clinches championship early.

DELTA CLINCH FOOTBALL TROPHY

After losing their first game to the Betas, the Deltas organized and swept the football trophy from the hand of a struggling Beta team. Led by quarterback, Wayne Dollar, speedy halfbacks, Barney Baggott and Sherrill Nielsen, and end Mike Golden, the Delta team rambled past all opponents to clinch the championship early.

But, after compiling an eleven game winning streak, the Delta squad finally met disaster, losing their last six games. They ended the season with fourteen wins and eight losses. Displaying a fine running attack and a powerful line, the late-surgng Alphas ended the season with seven wins and fifteen defeats, but still could not overtake the second place Betas, who finished with a 12-10 record.

"Flagball" helped to create much new interest and helped to bring about a very successful season. Everyone seems to be looking forward to next year when the few problems can be ironed out.

Trev-Echoes' OUTSTANDING PLAYER, JIM KNIGHT

His alert defense, his ability to catch those impossible passes, and his outstanding teamwork influenced our committee to choose Jim Knight as this issue's outstanding player.

For the last two issues of TREV-ECHOES our sports staff has elected one football player who has been outstanding. Both times the decision has been for players from the Alpha team. However, this time the tide has changed and the choice went to a player on the Beta team.
