Coming home to TNC!

Watch out, fellow students, for walls to shake, buildings to collapse, and be prepared to take little children off the streets! The week everyone has been waiting for is here! At last! Homecoming!

This week is filled with many different activities to help celebrate Trevecca's Homecoming. Such events as special chapel services, class reunions, a special Homecoming Concert, and the main event of Trevecca Homecoming, the Trojan Basketball Tournament, begin this week.

Each day of the week has been designated with a special dress code; Monday-"Nerd" day, Tuesday-"Stripes and Plaid" day, Wednesday-"Jersey" day, Thursday-"Dress-up" day, and Friday-"Purple and White" day. The dress codes were set with the idea of establishing school spirit. Students are encouraged to dress appropriately for each day.

The coronation of the Homecoming Queen will be different this year than in past years. During Thursday morning's chapel there will be a special coronation ceremony honoring Trevecca's 1986-87 Homecoming Court. The Homecoming Queen will be announced at this time by Master of Ceremonies, Sam Green. Dr. Melvin Welch, Associate Dean for Graduate Studies and coordinator for Trevecca Homecoming '86, stated that "This has been designed to allow the Queen and her court to be honored in a planned ceremony." Welch added, "This ceremony will include the returning of last year's queen, Melinda Nabors."

Scott Looman, freshman, puts up the "Tennessee Homecoming '86" banner in front of the administration building in preparation for Trevecca's Heritage Week.

Members of the Homecoming Court were chosen by individual classes. Those ladies representing each class are as follows: Regina Polly, freshman, Georgetown, Ky.; Kim James, sophomore, Long Beach, Miss.; Denise Franklin, junior, Tarrant, Ala., and the three seniors who are each hoping to be chosen Homecoming Queen, Tammy Lee, Hartsville, S.C.; Karen Miller, Asheville, N.C.; and Trisha Poore, Nashville, Tenn.. The student body will vote for its choice of Homecoming Queen on Tuesday, November 11. Thursday morning students are encouraged to dress up for this formal presentation of the Queen and her court. The Junior Class and Special Events Committee are sponsoring this occasion. The Queen and her court will be guests at a luncheon in the President's Dining Room, hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Adams, President of Trevecca and his wife, immediately following the ceremony.

Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. there will be a pep rally held in the Picnic Pavillion. Students are encouraged to attend. This will be an informal time with special recognition to be given once again to the Queen and her court.

Friday morning, following the Founder's Day Service, there will be a special Laying of the Wreath ceremony at Mt. Olivet Cemetery. This is done each year to honor the founder of Trevecca, J. O. McClurkan. The Student Government Assembly of Trevecca is in charge of this ceremony. President of the Associated Student Body, Joel Williams, will be Master of Ceremonies. Special music will be provided by New Direction, a public relations group for Trevecca. Rev. Dan Boone, pastor of College Hill, will be guest speaker. George Privett, Director of Alumni Relations, states that this is "our way of honoring him (McClurkan)."

There will be a luncheon following the Laying of the Wreath ceremony in the President's Dining Room, honoring former presidents of the college who are still living. Guest speaker at the luncheon will be Dr. Mark R. Moore, former president of Trevecca.

See "Homecoming" p. 4

Chapel Schedule

Homecoming at Trevecca is always a special occasion. With this special occasion comes a special chapel schedule. Just so everyone will know what's going on, here is what's coming up:

MONDAY, Nov. 10, chapel will be held at the bell tower. This service will celebrate Tennessee Homecoming '86. The ringing of the bell service will also officially begin TNC's Heritage Week.

TUESDAY, Nov. 11, is Veteran's Day Chapel. The speaker for this service will be Col. David Grosse, who is a chaplain at Andrews Air Force Base.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 12, is Student Government Assembly Chapel. The speaker for this service is Rev. Kevin Ulmet, a former Associated Student Body president.

CAMPUS NOTES

Anti-apartheid demonstrations continue at Maryland, Oklahoma, Johns Hopkins

The National Day of Protest was three weeks ago, but Oklahoma students continued their protests when President Reagan came to Norman to campaign last week.

Maryland and Johns Hopkins students rallied again when their trustees refused to divest.

U. Texas President William Cunningham, however, talked about the school's investments with students, many of whom had been arrested in a sit-in at his office the week before.

But Georgia State Rep. Tyrone Brooks urged a student anti-apartheid group in recent corporate retreat from South Africa was a sham.

Neighbor sues U. Colorado frat under organized crime law

Steven McCauley claims a Phi Delta Theta member beat him after he complained to police about noise the Phi house, and said other members vandalized his property.

McCauley's suit, which asks the court to shut down the frat, is believed to be the first time the Colorado Organized Crime Control Act has been used against a student organization.

And Bill Warren, a photographer for The Colorado Daily, a campus paper, says a Phi Delta member warned him "this may be the last picture you ever take" when he went to the house to cover the lawsuit story.

American U. Prof says "War on Drugs" is "hysterical"

Campaigning for a marijuana legalization ballot initiative at the U. of Oregon, Arnold Trebach, who heads AU's Institute on Drugs, Crime and Justice, likened recent anti-drug laws to the internment of Japanese-Americans during World War II, saying "it won't help."

Paris (Tx.) County Community College student Elizabeth Horn, meanwhile, has sued police for searching her room after mistakenly identifying spiced tea as hashish.

Memphis State closes public out of Madalyn Murray O'Hair's speech

Campus officials said they'd received numerous bomb threats to break up the speech by the atheist—whose 1967 suit led the U.S. Supreme Court to stop public schools from sponsoring religious events—and decided to let only members of the MSU community into the auditorium to hear her last week.

Schools' "Tide of Mediocrity" has receded a little, Terrel Bell says

Speaking at the U. of Pittsburgh, the former U.S. Education secretary who released the 1983 "Nation at Risk" study that, in turn, ignited the school reform movement, said states "where governors have been aggressive leaders" have "made the most dramatic moves" toward school "excellence."

He said 41 states have adopted the tougher high school graduation requirements his report suggested.

Retiring Nebraska Governor turns down a non-existent offer to teach at Harvard.

Bob Kerry officially turned down an offer from Harvard to teach a seminar on politics next year, adding he may teach instead at some other colleges and high schools.

But Harvard, says Dean Hale Champion, never offered Kerry a job.

Champion recalls a "conversation" with Kerry about teaching a non-credit seminar, but that he never offered the position to the governor.

A hill of beans, you say?

WNAZ's David Deese, director of broadcasting, and station manager John Wesley join TNC president, Dr. Homer Adams and Associated Student Body president Joel Williams as they kick-off WNAZ's "Bean Drive" for the Nashville Rescue Mission. The Rescue Mission is an organization which helps feed and care for the needy in Nashville. During the winter months, beans are a staple food for the mission. TNC's maintenance crew is an early leader in the bean drive, having gathered over 75 pounds of beans before the "Big Bean Bin" was even set-up.

Farmers offered free tuition

This fall marks the first semester that Bethel College (KS) has offered a year's free tuition for former farmers. Participants in the program must be 25 years of age or older and have abandoned farming as their primary vocation for financial reasons within the last two years.

After the announcement last December, Bethel received 60 inquiries and ten applications for the program; six farmers were admitted from Kansas, Illinois and Iowa. Participants must go through the normal application process and be admitted by the admissions office.

The program has received positive reports in the national media and from other colleges across the country. The Denver Post commented, "Bethel's target is the truly needy—not the big operators who ask a bailout for unwise land speculations. Bethel is helping the small farmer who must leave the farm, but who has no non-farm vocation. Maybe it's no coincidence that Bethel translates from Hebrew as 'House of God.'"

Bethel's president, Dr. Harold Schultz, remarked, "Mutual aid in times of need is in the Bethel tradition. Every institution and community must offer what it can. Since we are primarily an educational institution our support for (persons affected by) the farm crisis comes primarily through our area of strength—education."

Thanksgiving Gala

The Freshman Class will be sponsoring a Thanksgiving Gala Tuesday, Nov. 18, during the evening meal. Entertainment with Thanksgiving emphasis will be provided. Students are asked to dress in casual Sunday wear. No jeans, please.

Corporate retreat won't slow protests, activists say

(CPS)—Anti-apartheid activists on American campuses won major victories last week when a string of corporate giants, General Motors, Honeywell, IBM, Coke and Warner Communications, announced they were pulling out of segregationist South Africa.

But the activists say the movement on campuses will keep going even after achieving one of its most important goals.

"I don't think it will slow down the protests at all," says Bill Northway of Stanford Out of Africa. "If anything, it will encourage us."

"It is a victory," says Richard Knight of the American Committee on Africa, the New York-based group that has coordinated anti-apartheid efforts on U.S. campuses for years, "and it is important to realize it is a victory. But I don't think protests will slow down at all."

If last week was any indication, the movement may grow even more confrontative, especially at campuses that refuse to sell more or all of their shares in firms that do business in South Africa.

Police, for example, arrested 40 Wellesley students for trespassing during a demonstration about the school's failure to divest. Even as Stanford's trustees voted to sell off another $4.5 million in shares in two companies doing business in South Africa, about 125 protestors rallied for "total divestment." Austin police, moreover, arrested 16 anti-apartheid demonstrators at a sit-in at University of Texas President William Cunningham's office.

Some schools noted that, in light of the South Africa exodus of the blue-chip companies, their holdings in apartheid-related firms had fallen without their having sold a share.

David Swensen, who heads Yale's investment office, announced that, since Yale had "substantial holdings" in IBM, Coca-Cola and GM, "there will be a rather dramatic drop in our South Africa-related holdings."

And University of Vermont Treasurer Gordon Paterson said Vermont may "reconsider" its earlier decision to sell its IBM stock in light of IBM's withdrawal.

No one really knows how much American schools' investment in firms that do business in South Africa fell as a result of the corporate exodus.

American colleges already have sold about $600 million—out of a total investment of $7 billion—in stock in firms that do business in South Africa, reports Anne Griffin of the Investor Responsibility Research Center (IRRC), a Washington, D.C. group that tracks the South African operations of U.S. firms.

But Griffin says it's too early to calculate just how much less in South African investments the schools will have because of the corporate withdrawals.

But activists say it doesn't matter. Yale anti-apartheid leader Matthew Kimble promises his group's activities will continue at least until the school divests completely.

"This is purely speculation on my part," says Griffin, whose group does not take a stand for or against divestiture, "but I don't think the protests will slow down."

She adds an IRRC study about to be released shows most schools that have not yet divested plan to maintain the "conservative" investment policies—either keeping their stock or pressuring firms to treat their black South African workers well—that provoked student protests in the first place.

"A lot depends on the institutions themselves," Griffin observes. "Lots of them are conservative, and lots of them have lots of money at stake."

Knight adds the corporate withdrawals may not really mean the firms are finished doing business in South Africa, anyway. Many of the 24 firms that have left the country still have licensing agreements to sell their wares in the land.

"Forcing a company to (withdraw) from South Africa is not good enough anymore, and students are fully aware of this," Knight says.

"Campus protests," he adds, "probably won't go away until apartheid goes away. Corporate withdrawals are pleasing to him, but 'activists are very serious. After all, there are other things to do with your life at that age than sit in front of a Coke building for three weeks.'"

THE POINT

with Scott Stargel
editor-in-chief

As I wind up this first quarter of my rein (or exile) in the trev-echoes office, I'm overwhelmed by all that has happened to me in these 10 weeks.

First, as always, I need to thank everyone. I've always hated the blanket "thank-yous" that usually run something like, "It would take too long to list everyone personally, but I would just like to thank a few special . . ." So I'm going to try and really thank these people. Jimmy Sinn, Bryan Hulse, Jane Hopper, Teressia Ward, Valerie Whittington, Kevin Stokes, Teddy Mintz, Roger Pearson, Joe Bell, Richelle Brown, Preston Cannon, Michelle

I've probably left someone out, and I'll feel awful about it later.

So many people, so many changes, so many new beginnings. So many everythings. It's overwhelming.

The first quarter of my senior year is almost over, and already I'm getting depressed.

Being editor has made me mad at everyone, yet glad to have my friends.

I can honestly say that this first 10 weeks has given me a new view on life. I've learned that all those times that I've felt cheated are balanced by all those times I've been undeservedly blessed. I think it's the extreme irony.

Through all this wandering and vagueness, I do have a point. Some people cry in situations like this; some deal with milestones with stoic acceptance. I'm simply dealing with it by rambling for a while.

So the point is, thank you, everyone, for helping get through this. We did it. God help us make it through the next ten weeks.

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Scott,

How are you? I'm fine. Did you happen to catch the little ceremony in chapel last Tuesday? Just in case you didn't, let me fill you in. At the beginning of "chapel," they presented several long-stem white roses with nice little lavender bows to several lovely young ladies who seemed delighted with the presentation and the accompanying hug. I'm really glad they took the time during chapel to show us who the nominees are. After all, that's why we voted for them in the first place, right??

The whole affair, which I'm sure has just begun, reminded me somewhat of a rather quaint, yet primitive custom of a group of so-called "freedom-seekers" in the West during the late twentieth century. You remember those people, don't you Scott? Every year they would hold a much-celebrated contest to see which one of their members was physically superior to the rest. The winner of this glorious contest received all kinds of gifts and honors from the other people who were found to be "not superior." So the contest continued year after year and became a most sacred event.

I suppose that's why they're having the homecoming coronation in chapel this year. You think?

Ethnic training centers boost NBC enrollment

The seven Ethnic Training Centers affiliated with Nazarene Bible College in cooperation with Church Extension Ministries have reported a fall 1986 enrollment of 262. Of this number, 56 are college-level students, thus increasing the Colorado campus registration from 421 to 477.

There are 159 students in the ethnic programs preparing for ordination or certification in the ministry with 103 involved in lay-training, according to Dr. R.T. Bolerjack, NBC's vice-president in charge of ethnic training.

Classes at the various centers are taught in five languages (Armenian, French Creole, Lao, Spanish, and English) to ten ethnic groups (Anglos, Armenians, Arabs, Blacks, Cambodians, Haitians, Hispanics, Laotians, Samoans, and Vietnamese).

Nazarenes confer with Christian & Missionary Alliance reps on joint publishing program

Representatives of the Church of the Nazarene and the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, met to discuss the possibility of participation in joint publishing projects in the Cambodian Khymer language, October 28. The meeting was convened at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Midwest District office in Bloomingdale, Ill.

Plans progressing on NY thrust

The New York District Advisory Board is progressing in its plans for the 1988 Thrust to New York City. Rev. Michael Estep, Thrust to the Cities director, met with the board, October 24, to discuss the preliminary plans for the Thrust to the Big Apple.

The board has authorized Rev. Dallas Mucci, district superintendent, to meet with pastors on each zone to discuss the strategy. Each zone in turn will elect a representative to a planning committee which will have two members-at-large appointed by Rev. Mucci. After approval by the district advisory board the plan will be filed with the Thrust to the Cities office by February 1, 1987.

Eastern regional Korean fellowship meeting

The Eastern Regional Korean Fellowship met at Camp Taconic on the New York District, October 23-25. The meeting was held to provide inspiration, fellowship, and training for the planting of Korean churches east of the Mississippi River in the U.S.A. and Canada.

Personal notes

Rev. Dwight Rich, missionary to Ecuador, continues to improve following a motorcycle accident in August. He had surgery to place plates in his right leg, October 23. The left leg is healing well, and his sight is improving. Also, Rev. Rich's three-year-old son, Bryan, is currently undergoing a series of rabies shots after being bitten by a cat.

Medical Assistants week

National Medical Assistant week was November 4-9, 1986. The Medical Assistant Program hosted a reception for students, graduates, local physicians and practicing Medical Assistants on November 4 from 5:00 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. in McKay Parlor with excellent attendance.

On November 7, Medical Assistant Students from Trevecca will be assisting with registration at the Southeast Regional Meeting of AAMA, thus helping to make the Southeast region aware that accredited medical assistant educational programs are important to the profession.

Medical Assistants are important members of the health care team. They are utilized in many ways but their primary role is to assist the physician in the management of their offices. They perform both administrative and clinical duties to assist the physician in providing optimum health care.

Trevecca has the only Medical Assistant Program in Nashville that is accredited by the American Medical Association's Committee on Allied Health Education Accreditation.

If you have an interest in health care and want more information about the program, please call 248-1225 for an appointment.

Friday at 3:00 p.m. will be the Homecoming Parade, which is sponsored by the Alumni office. Coordinator of the parade is Mardon Day, Executive Vice President of the Associated Student Body. The parade will begin with entries leaving from behind Tidwell, following around Tradition Drive, down Lester Avenue to the Towers, back up and around Tradition Drive a final time and will wind down behind Tidwell. Live music will be provided by Trevecca's own Stage Band, under the direction of Steve Farnsley, on the steps of the Jernigan Student Center.

The first game of the Trojan Basketball Tournament will begin at 6:00 p.m. Friday evening. Trevecca students are encouraged to be at the P.E. Center before then to be assured of a seat. Seating is limited and a large number of people are expected. At 7:45 p.m. the Homecoming Queen and her court will be presented.

Saturday, November 15, holds many activities involving graduates from Trevecca, beginning at 8:00 a.m. with the Alumni Association Board of Directors Breakfast in the President's Dining Room. At 9:30 a.m. there will be a "Hole in One" competition for those who are interested. This is being lead by Dr. A. W. (Toby) Williams. Class reunions begin at 10:00 a.m. with former students of Trevecca once again reminiscing about the "good old days." The Circle K Golf Tournament will also be at this time.

There will be a reception for the class of 1936 in Trevecca Towers II Lounge and the class of 1951 in Trevecca Towers East Lounge. The class of 1966 will be served brunch in room 307 of the Jernigan Student Center and the class of 1981 will have brunch in College Hill Church's Fellowship Hall. A brunch will be served for the classes of 1969-72 in the Apple Dining Room of the Jernigan Center. The final reception will be a luncheon at 12:00 noon for the class of 1956 in College Hill's Fellowship Hall.

The Homecoming Concert will be held Saturday at 2:00 p.m. for alumni and students to attend. Performing will be the Choral Department of Trevecca. The Choral Department consists of the Ambassadors, Concert Choir, Madrigalians, Treble Tones, Trevedores, and New Direction.

This year there is an additional group in the Choral Department, Masterpeace. Also performing will be Choral Union singing John Rutter's "Gloria."

Heritage Week and Homecoming Events will end following the final game of the Trevecca Trojans Basketball Tournament Saturday.

Rainy Days. . .
Inclement weather kept most people in this past week. This student was caught walking across the pavement outside the Jernigan Center on Wednesday.

THURSDAY, Nov. 13, is the Homecoming Coronation chapel. The contestants for the homecoming pageant will be presented, and all who attend are asked to dress for the occasion.

FRIDAY, Nov. 14, is Founder's Day Chapel. General Superintendent, Dr. William

Greathouse, and Educational Services Director, Dr. Mark More will be the special guests for the service. Greathouse served as president of TNC from 1963-1968, and Moore was president from 1968-1979. The Trebletones will be providing special music. The traditional wreath-laying service at the grave of TNC founder J. O. McClurkan (Olivet Cemetery) will be handled by SGA immediately following the chapel. Rev. Dan Boone, pastor of College Hill Church of the Nazarene, will speak, and New Direction will provide the special music.

New equipment acquired for chemistry program

Recent instrument acquisitions have greatly improved TNC's chemistry program.

Mr. R. David Rainwater, a 1971 TNC chemistry alumnus, persuaded his employer, Ampex Corp. of Opelika, Alabama, to give his alma mater a Perkin-Elmer Model 337 infrared spectrophotometer that Ampex no longer needed. This instrument has been repaired and is now operational.

TNC bought a Varian EM-360 nuclear magnetic resonance (nmr) spectrometer last summer from Vanderbilt University. The instrument cost over $10,000 when new in 1973. Even though it is in working order, Vanderbilt sold it to TNC for only $700 because of lack of space at Vanderbilt.

Infrared spectrophotometry and nmr are useful methods of compound identification and are worthwhile additions to the laboratory in certain advanced courses.

A brand-new Shimadzu GC-9 Gas Chromatograph, complete with a computer and all the necessary equipment, was recently acquired. This state-of-the-art instrument, worth over $12,000, can detect trace amounts of organic compounds such as pesticides in soils and water.

Motec, Inc., a company based in nearby Mt. Juliet, Tennessee which is involved in treatment and handling of industrial wastes, bought the equipment and has hired some advanced TNC chemistry students to run analyses with the chromatograph. The college can use it for research and teaching and will eventually own the instrument.

Over $10,000 worth of smaller instruments, glassware, and equipment has also been given by several donors to TNC's chemistry program in the past year or so.

"Trevecca is now on a par with other small private colleges in chemical instrumentation and equipment," said Dr. Gerald A. Nyssen, chemistry professor, "and our gas chromatograph is one of the best in the nation. We hope to acquire more major instruments through Motec in the next year or so. Trevecca's overall chemistry instrumentation will then be among the best at any American private college."

Diehl presents senior recital

by Becki Loar

This past Friday night at 6:00 p.m. the Music Department presented Dean Diehl, Music Education major, in senior recital in the Wakefield Auditorium. Diehl, from Mt. Juliet Tenn., is an instrumentalist. His performance included playing a soprano trumpet and a B-flat trumpet. Dixie Heck accompanied Diehl on the piano.

Dean's selections were "Sinfonia Con Tromba" by Torelli; a concerto by Haydn; "Bride of the Waves" by Clark; and "Sonatine" by Hummel.

Of Gary Armstrong, Diehl's trumpet instructor, Diehl remarked that he had "no disappointments" in regards to Armstrong's teaching. Diehl went on to say that Armstrong was the finest private instructor under which he had studied. Diehl also wanted to express thanks and appreciation to Dr. Stephen Farnsley, advisor and professor.

An added feature to the recital came at intermission. The audience was treated to the debut of a newly-formed six member trombone ensemble.

It was evident in Diehl's performance that a great amount of work had brought him to this point in his education. That work combined with his natural talent for music made the evening very successful.

FAHRENHEIT

Toto
Columbia Records

This group's long-awaited return kept a lot of faithful listeners on pins and needles. The result: a really nice job from the guys who gave us "Rosanna" and "Africa."

The album opens with a snappy cut, "Till the End," and is followed by an impressive ballad, "We Can Make It Tonight." Another ballad well worth mention is "Lea," which uses Steve Lukather on acoustic guitar. The title cut, though seemingly a departure from the classic Toto style, is one of the album's highlights. It is a glossy, synth-dominated combination of pop and soul. "Can't Stand It Any Longer" brings out the soulful vocals and R&B-influenced groove Toto's known for. The LP's strongest tune has to be "I'll Be Over You," the single on radio now. Its tight vocal harmonies (thanks due to former Doobie Michael McDonald) and musical eloquence get my vote.

A laid-back, comfortable feel seems to prevail over FAHRENHEIT. Impressive. 1/2

DESTINY

Chaka Khan
Warner Bros. Records

The latest from soul songstress Chaka Khan has received a lot of criticism from several reputable sources—ROLLING STONE, SPIN, and others. But I have to say I like it.

This is something of a change from "I Feel For You," her soul/top 40 hit from 1984. It's a maturing move toward a big variety of musical styles. It shows that Chaka has a wide range of influences. She received help from a number of her professional peers—Phil Collins and Mike Rutherford of Genesis, Richard Page and Steve George of Mr. Mister, and Green Gartside of Scritti Politti. The result is a diversified mix of musical artistry and frivolity.

The album opens with "Love of a Lifetime," a positive, reassuring look at a relationship. "The Other Side of the World," from the WHITE NIGHTS soundtrack, is a keyboard triumph, thanks to producer Robbie Buchanan (noted for his work with Amy Grant, Russ Taff, and others). "My Destiny" presents life as a responsibility everyone has to bear—"I'm the ruler of my destiny / I can determine what becomes of me." The album's highlight is "Watching the World," a straightforward inquisition about the world and why things are happening the way they are. The chorus reads: "Who's watching the world / Who's changing the balance of power / Who's watching the world / Are we building a future or just standing still." The music is typically Mr. Mister and Chaka's soul-filled vocals make it memorable.

DESTINY is a step forward for Chaka Khan. 1/2

CHICAGO

In Concert

One of popular music's premier groups, Chicago, gave an outstanding performance to a rather rambunctious crowd at Middle Tennessee State University's Murphy Center Friday night. The eight-member band opened with their high-tech remake of "25 or 6 to 4" followed by a good mixture of new and old. The band performed songs spanning the last twenty years, including "Colour My World" and "If You Leave Me Now" among others. Singer/bassist Jason Scheff seemed to have no trouble filling the shoes of former lead singer Peter Cetera as his voice soared on "Hard to Say I'm Sorry" and "You're the Inspiration." And what can I say about the Chicago brass section? Their tight harmonies and emphatic licks were as refined as ever. An all-around impressive performance from some of popular music's most talented veterans.

Notes from the cafeteria

With homecoming this week, there are several changes in the cafeteria schedule for students. Tuesday and Saturday, Nov. 11 and 15, dinner will be served in the Snack Shoppe. The Apple Dining Room will be used for special dinners for the Nashville area businesses and class reunions.

Pioneer is also taking applications for next quarter's work schedule. Anyone interested should sign up for appointments Sunday-Friday from 2:00-4:00. Ask for Pete.

Phi Beta Lambda takes on Chicago

by Teressia Ward

Oct. 29 through Nov. 2 were days full of learning and fun for the 28 students from Phi Beta Lambda who travelled to Olivet Nazarene College located just outside of Chicago.

PBL students from Trevecca met with business students from Olivet to see if they (TNC students) could charter PBL at Olivet.

The PBL members visited Chicago's Board of Trade, which is similar to New York's commodities (grain, gold, silver, etc.) exchange.

While in Chicago, the students taped a television show, "Stocks, Options, and Futures . . . with Ira Epstein." The show will be viewed nationwide on the Cable News Network.

PBL visited the Sears Towers expecting a meeting with Richard M. Jones, president of the Sears Corporation and a member of the Church of the Nazarene. Jones was not available, so another high-ranking executive took them on a tour of the observation level of the building, which was "only" the 103rd floor.

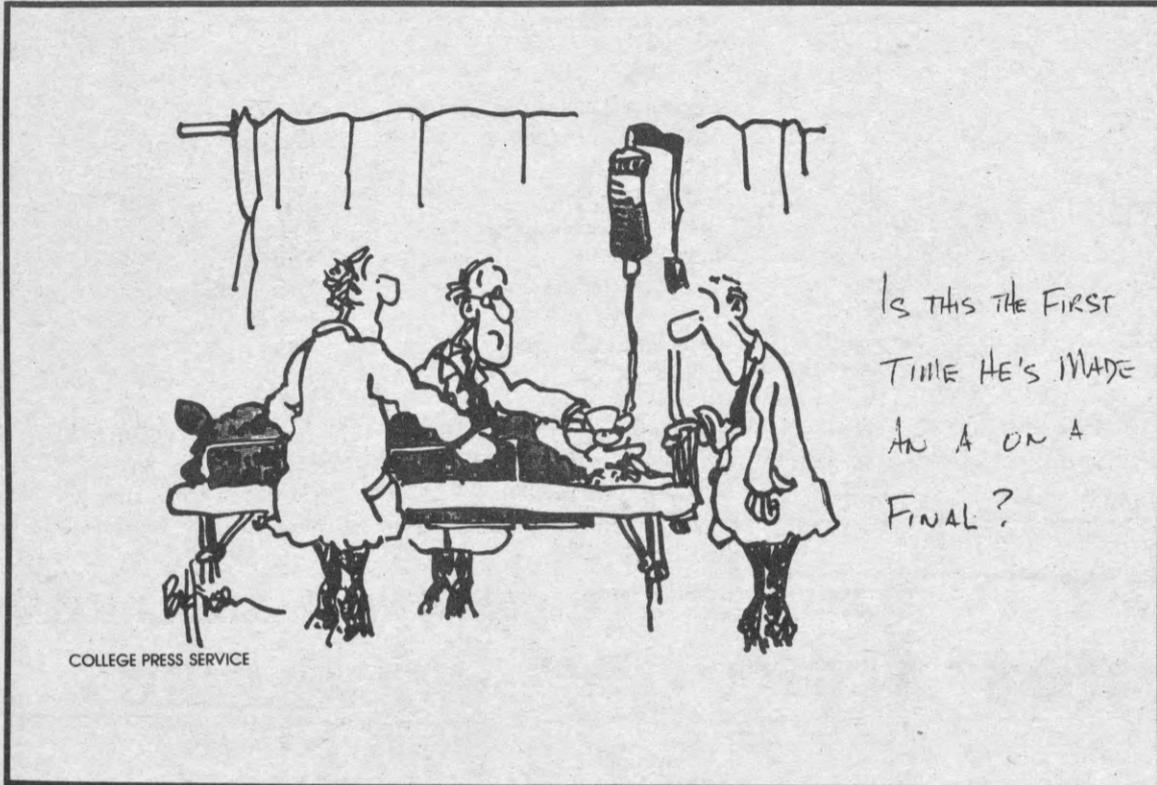

Saturday, the group split into smaller groups and went to spend their shopping money.

The members who made the trip will receive two hours credit in economics if they write a paper on either the Sears Towers or the Board of exchange.

Diane Simpson, secretary of Phi Beta Lambda, states that PBL is a "good organization for business students. PBL helps us for when we get ready to go out on our own in the world." Simpson continues, "It will look good on a resume to say you were in a business club."

Stuart Garber, chaplain of Trevecca's PBL, is glad he went. "I learned a lot." The thing Garber enjoyed the most was "actually watching the Board of Trade." Garber adds, "I was impressed with Olivet and its campus. I love Chicago."

The first and only Jelly Bean Drive

by Jane Hopper

The King's Kids first and only annual homecoming "Jelly Bean Count" for Guatemala will be held on Monday Nov. 10, and Tuesday Nov. 11 in the lobby of the Jernigan Center during lunch and dinner.

The cost will be 25¢ a guess, and any other donations will be gladly accepted. Several prizes will be awarded.

First, second and third prizes will be given to the closest three guesses.

Additional prizes will be given out by drawing names after each meal and holding them until after the contest. Winners will be printed in Thursday's Daily Announcer.

WNAZ, TNC Bookstore, Snack Shoppe, King's Kids, Student Services, and the Church Relations office donated prizes for the event. The prizes include: an autographed copy of Dr. Dunnington's lecture notes on his "Sex and Dating" seminar, WNAZ coffee mugs, a WNAZ sweatshirt, T-Shirts, a 1985-86 PR tape, gift certificates at the Snack Shoppe, and a special surprise gift from Student Services.

All this is being done for fun, but the main purpose is to help raise money for the Guatemala project. TNC will be sending a group to Guatemala to help in the construction of the Children's Refugee Center.
