TNC receives $1,000,000 endowment

By Tom Felder
Editor

Through a memo to the Board of Trustees, President Homer J. Adams has announced that Trevecca Nazarene College has received a $1,000,000 gift for endowment from Rev. Don Jernigan. The gift, which was announced last week, represents "one of the largest of its kind in the history of Nazarene higher education," says Dr. Adams.

According to Dr. Adams, the gift is in the form of securities and is part of the sale of Mediplex Corporation. After the final closing of this sale, which is several months away, Trevecca will hold debentures from Beverly Corporation bearing 9% interest. Interest on these notes will be accompanied by payment on the principal, prorated over eight years. The income from this gift is expected to begin in March, 1982.

This gift is not, however, the first from Rev. Jernigan. In the past he has, among other things, donated $40,000 in cash and services on the McClurkan Building renovation, a unit in the Trevecca Health Care Center valued at $20,000, and a lot estimated to be worth $15,000.

According to Dr. Adams,

this gift of endowment funds fills a very pressing need. He stated that possible uses for the funds may include support and funding of the $90,000 in scholarships given to Trevecca students each year. At this time, these scholarships do not have funded support, which, according to Dr. Adams, is a matter of great concern to the Southern Association (of Colleges and Universities) and to the college as well.

However, with the reduction of federal grants a reality, and with more cuts to come, the college is not stopping here. Rather, it is now working on another goal of $1,000,000 to fund scholarships.

According to Dr. Adams, "this gift does not solve all financial problems, but it certainly meets a major need and helps us pray and work optimistically on the others."

Susan Slaughter to present concert tonight

By Dee Metcalf
News Editor

Once again students interested in music will have an opportunity to enjoy the performance of a professional musician through Trevecca's Lyceum Committee. Miss Susan Slaughter, Principal Trumpet of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, is to be the guest for this quarter's Lyceum program.

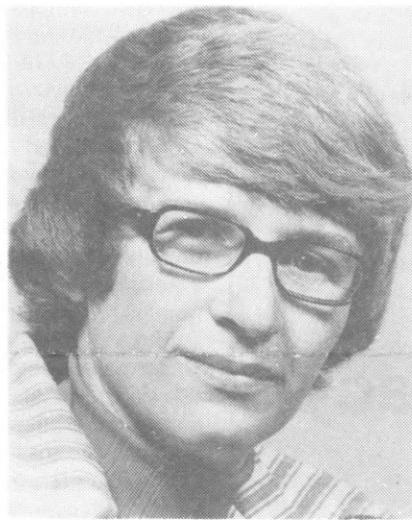

Miss Slaughter is the only female principal trumpet with a major symphony. This in itself is a great achievement but, in her free time she enjoys giving

Christian concerts interspersed with her personal testimony.

Born in McCordsville, Indiana, Miss Slaughter attended a public school where she became interested in music. She picked the cornet because she "liked the sound." At the close of her sophomore year Miss Slaughter went to Indianapolis where she took lessons under Dan Minter, who greatly influenced her ambition towards the orchestral field. During her senior year she made the change from cornet to trumpet because a trumpet is more of an orchestral instrument. Through prayer for guidance Miss Slaughter decided that it would be God's will for her to attend Indiana University, where she enrolled in the Bachelor of Music program.

While at the University, she received the Performer's certificate and studied at the Aspen Festival for nine weeks on a scholarship. In her senior year she attained the position of principal trumpet on the school's top orchestra, the

Susan Slaughter

Philharmonic.

After college Miss Slaughter became principal trumpet of the Toledo Symphony Orchestra and later acquired the same position in the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

Performing with the orchestra has provided Miss Slaughter the opportunity to travel extensively across the

Darda

The most asked question on campus since, "Who shot J.R.?" is probably "Where are the Darda's?" Well, the answer to that question comes in two parts—good news and bad news.

The good news is that, according to Howard Wall, II, yearbook advisor, the final portion of the 1980-81 Darda's has been sent to the printer. The bad news is that the earliest probable date for them to be in students' hands is the end of February.

According to Mr. Wall, last year's yearbook would have been out towards the end of next month if the last part had been at the printer's by December 9. However, it was not taken to the printer's until just before Christmas, so the end of February is the earliest anyone can hope for. Mr. Wall did state, however, that it would be out this quarter.

Junior Class to hold special elections

By Tom Felder
Editor

Petitions closed today for the Junior Class special election, which has been called to replace former president Tom Dula, who did not return this quarter, and has subsequently resigned. On Monday the Administrative Council will meet to formally approve any candidates.

If only one candidate has petitioned for the office, then petitions will be opened again for a couple of days.

Campaigning should begin in about a week, and the election will be held on Thursday, January 28, 1982.

This vacancy and election come at a very crucial moment because the Junior class officers are in the process of finalizing plans for the Junior/Senior Banquet next quarter. According to Linda Munro, Junior Class Vice President and Acting-President until the election, most of the other activities have been set and plans on the banquet have been made. However, the plans are in the finalization stage right now.

Linda stated that she felt that the new president would have a much harder time taking over in the middle of the year, than if he, or she, were just starting at the beginning. For one thing, since most plans have been made, the new president would have to go along with them.

When asked about what qualifications she felt were needed for the position, especially at this point in the year, Linda stated that the new president must be devoted to the task and have time to do it. She also felt that the new class leader must be able to fit quickly into the SGA structure and help keep the class ahead financially.

However, Linda did feel that this situation has been productive in one respect. She felt that, although they are disappointed that Tom did not return, this has brought the six officers closer together. According to Linda, Tom made most of the decisions as president, but the officers are now functioning as one. She does not consider herself the only class leader; rather, all of the officers are acting as

"surrogate" presidents, and the decisions are being made as a group.

The remaining officers of the 1981-82 Junior Class are Linda Munro, Vice-President; Jenny Fisher, Secretary; Sandy Archer, Treasurer; Reggie Rose, Chaplain, and Melvin Taylor and Julie Pelton, SGA Representatives.

The class has already sponsored several events and are planning others in the future, including two movies, Casablanca and The Adventures of Robin Hood, as well as the Junior/Senior Banquet.

Looking back and moving forward

The year 1981 is now history and by looking back we can see that it was a great one for the Trevecca community. The year began with a lot of problems, but through hard work and cooperation, most of these were solved. It was also a year of victories and change.

The Trojan basketball team probably had the biggest success of the year. The team, under the leadership of Coach Frank Wilson, stormed through the season on the way to capturing their first VSAC Championship.

Change was one of the key words in 1981. The biggest of these were the revamping of the class schedule and the installing of a new, computerized, $300,000 phone system to replace the old switchboard.

Improvement was also a key word last year. Topping the list of improvements was the renovation of McClurkan. However, MacKay Library, Wakefield Fine Arts and the Administration Building have all received facelifts, and the ceiling of the Gym is being raised in order to provide more seating.

Revival was also a big part of 1981. The New Year's Revival last Winter, Benson Lecture Series last Spring, and the Fall Revival last quarter, were all spiritual highlights of the year. The Holy Spirit was definitely present and many lives were touched and changed.

Thus, 1981 was a great year for TNC. However, the tiem for looking back is drawing to a close, and attention needs to be given to the present year. Despite the unusual atmosphere of cooperation last year, problems will alomst definitely arise. This is not a bad sign, rather an indication of growth and progress. Thus, all members of the community must continue to work together for the common goal.

Leaving a Legacy

A legacy is something that you leave to future generations and almost everyone would like to leave one. Well, Trev-Echoes is going to give you a chance to do just that. The fact is, you can share something with those who are around and leave a legacy for future Treveccans at the same time.

In Spring, 1982, Trev-Echoes will introduce Legacy, a new student literary magazine. This magazine, a first for Trevecca, will feature short stories, poetry, essays, art and photography from you—the students of Trevecca. This campus is just full of talent and your student newspaper is going to provide a medium for some of it to be spotlighted.

Deadline for entries will be Friday, February 19, 1982. All written submissions, including short stories, poetry and essays, are to be typed and double-spaced. Art and photography must be in black and white.

So, here's your chance to be a part of a Legacy. If you have a flair with the pen or camera then let us see it. There is no limit on the number of items which may be subitted and you can contribute in any, or all of the areas. However, all items must be in good taste.

Trojans don't make Top 20

This week's NAIA Top 20 did not include Trevecca College, despite their win over David Liscomb. The Trojans did receive votes, but not enough to break into the elite group.

David Liscomb dropped from 4th to 6th after losing to TNC last week. Lemoyne-Owen, who gave Liscomb their only other loss, moved up to number four.

Also getting votes in this week's poll were Bethany Nazarene and Northwestern Nazarene. However, they too were short of enough votes to make the Top 20. Melvin Taylor was nominated for NAIA Player of the Week.

Abortion: A Christian's response

Guest Editorial

During the 1980 election campaign we heard the usual rhetoric about abortion. But we also heard some startling statements by people of world reknown. Pope John Paul II said that abortion was an "unspeakable crime" while candidate John B. Anderson, who calls himself an evangelical, said that it should be an unmitigated right. Where does the truth lie? For the Christian person his or her fundamental guide and light is Scripture. In discerning truth and justice in any social justice issue the revelation of Scripture must be our primary source.

Let us look first to Gen. 1:26, 28. Here we see that man is fashioned in the image of God. Man is not an autonomous being, who determines his own destiny, but rather is part of God's creation. As such man takes on inestimable value. The Exodus 20:13 command "You shall not kill," is not simply a prohibition of murder, but also a positive command to respect human life.

Many have argued that the Scriptures are silent on the subject of abortion, as there is not direct reference to the practice. If one is looking for a "thou shalt not commit abortion," they will come up short. The argument against abortion found in Scripture is built largely on principles of the sanctity of human life, specifically of pre-natal life.

One passage that does speak directly about damage to the unborn is Exodus 21: 22-25. "When men strive together, and hurt a woman with child, and hurt a woman with child, so that there is a miscarriage, and yet no harm follows, the one who hurt her shall be fined according as the woman's husband shall lay on him; and he shall pay as the judges determine. If any harm follows, then you shall give life for life, eye for eye, etc." At first glance this passage seems to indicate a minimal value attached to the unborn by placing the emphasis on the mother's injuries. But examination of Hebrew text, a mistranslation of the word "miscarriage" can be shown. The Hebrew for miscarriage is "shakol" and is not used in this passage. The word that is used instead is "yatza," which means "childbirth." "Yatza" is used in Gen. 25:26, and is translated there as "to come forth." This passage can be accurately translated as, "When men strive together, and hurt a woman with child, so that there is a childbirth (or literally, a 'child comes forth')." This corrected translation sheds new light on the value of the unborn. If premature childbirth occurs and the child lives unharmed, then a fine is imposed. If the child is damaged or dies, higher penalties will be meted out—in some cases even death. I am not suggesting that we follow these Old Testament commands today, but they certainly give us an idea of how precious prenatal life is to God.

The Old and New Testament writers understood biological reproduction to be a supernaturally guided event. Prenatal existence is understood to be under God's controlling hand. In Job 3:3, Job curses the day of his conception, but later acknowledges in Job 10:10-12, that it is God who created him and knit him together. Psalm 139: 13-16 is perhaps the most awesome and inspiring message from God concerning the unborn. The theme of the chapter is that God has unending care for David. Verses 13-16 point out that God's love and care extend to prenatal life as well.

This passage informs us that it was God who formed David in his mother's womb. David understood this and expressed his thanks to God for the way he was "fearfully and wonderfully made." David's formation in the womb was not hidden from God, for verse 16 says that God "saw" or "acknowledged" David's existence as already created life, and had already numbered his days.

Jeremiah 1:5 teaches that Jeremiah was called to be a prophet before he was formed in the womb, and before birth God had consecrated him. In Luke 1:15 we see that John the Baptist was filled with the Holy Spirit while yet in his mother's womb.

The advent of Jesus to earth was through the means of Holy Spirit conception (Matthew 1:20). This passage indicates the importance for Christ to experience the full range of human existence—starting at conception.

This biblical understanding has been reflected throughout the history of the Christian church, as abortion has been thoroughly rejected as sin until the last decade by Protestant,

Trev-Echoes, as an official publication of the Associated Student Body of Trevecca Nazarene College, is published regularly during the year, as a forum for significant news and intelligent discussion within the context of a Christian academic community. The Trev-Echoes office is located on the ground floor of the McClurkan Building and all correspondence should be addressed to Box 646, Nashville, TN 37203.

Opinions expressed in editorials and letters are not necessarily those of Trev-Echoes, nor the students, faculty or administration of Trevecca Nazarene College, but rather of the author. Letters are welcomed, but must not exceed 300 words. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, but names will be withheld upon request.

Johnson presents Wachtel Lectures

Rev. Talmadge Johnson, Superintendent of the Tennessee District of the Church of the Nazarene, was the guest speaker for the 1982 Wachtel Lecture Series, which concluded today. The evangelism series is sponsored by the family of D.K. Wachtel in memory of the former evangelist and Tennessee District Superintendent.

Rev. Johnson is a graduate of Bethany Nazarene College, where he received his bachelor and masters degrees. Prior to assuming his present position, he was superintendent of the Mississippi District for five years. Before that he served as a pastor in Oklahoma for fourteen years and was an evangelist for three years.

Rev. Johnson has also served as General President of the Nazarene Young People's Society and as a member of the General Board of the Church of the Nazarene. He is presently a member of the Trevecca College Board of Trustees.

Preceding the lecture series was College Hill's annual New Year's Revival with Rev. Stuart McWhirter. The revival began last Sunday and ran through Wednesday night. Rev. McWhirter spoke in chapel on Tuesday.

Rev. McWhirter is an international evangelist in the Church of the Nazarene and lives in Indiana. He is, according to Pastor Ed Nash, one of the most popular evangelists in the church and a favorite among college students.

Benson gets new R.C.'s

By Linda Dickens
Staff Writer

Trevecca gains a few new faces on its staff and faculty each year, and this year has been no exception. Doug and Cyndi Ernest moved on campus this quarter to tackle the considerable job of being Resident Counselors at Benson Hall. Joining the faculty this quarter is Professor Rob Blann, as a member of the English Department.

Doug and Cyndi Ernest moved here from Sterling Park, Virginia to be the RC's of Benson Hall. Doug had attended Northern Virginia Community College for one year and was working part-time at the National Association of Secondary School Principals during his studies, after working with C & P Telephone for several years. Knowing he would need to graduate from a four-year college to get his degree in accounting, he began thinking of a school to attend. He had attended Trevecca for one year, ten years before, and liked it. His sister, a graduate of TNC who lives in this area, informed him of the position of RC. Doug and Cyndi applied, and when the position became open for them, they accepted.

Cyndi received her degree in Elementary Education from Oral Roberts University and taught school in Northern Virginia for four years at the time of the move. She will be working as the secretary at Kinderhaus, the campus daycare center. In July she will fill the position of secretary of the Education Department.

"Since moving here the biggest problem we've had is adjusting to the hours—dorm life here begins at 11:00," Cyndi said. The Ernests are working into their new schedule of late nights and the work that comes with their responsibility. Even as Cyndi spoke, a flood of papers and a typewriter lay on the table in front of her—dorm typing waiting to be finished.

"Doug and I met at a Nazarene church. One of the neat things about coming here, I think, is that when we were engaged and getting married, we always wished we could have gone to school together, doing things like going to the basketball games and concerts. In a way this is like our wish coming true—not exactly, but almost. We hope to get to know the students here—the guys and the girls."

Also joining the faculty of TNC is Professor Rob Blann. Blann is a graduate of Vanderbilt University with a B.A. in English, and holds an M.A. degree from Emory University. He is not totally new to Trevecca, as he taught part-time at TNC during the fall quarter. Blann has previously worked with the Metro School System and the Social Security Administration.

Rob and his wife, Barbara, have a recently adopted daughter, Jennifer Lee. They are members of the First Church of the Nazarene, Nashville.

More information on 'Scholarship Bank'

Last year Trev-Echoes ran an article dealing with a program called the Scholarship Bank. The Scholarship Bank is an organization that provides a listing of scholarship possibilities to students for a fee. After running the article, the Scholarship Bank received a number of inquiries from students, according to Steve Danz, director of the program. The following are a few questions and answers dealing with this program which might help those who are considering it.

1. Which students are eligible to use The Scholarship Bank? All students, undergraduate and graduate, may apply to us for financial aid. We are the only complete source of all private financial aid in the U.S., including graduate grants, internships, work-study, and of course, scholarships.

2. How much private aid is available? We estimate there are over 25,000 private aid sources. These include private foundations, trade groups, other non-profit institutions, civic groups and commercial lenders. The average scholarship is valued at approximately $750, and many are renewable annually.

3. How many different aid sources will we send each student? We promise the student at least 20 different sources for which he/she is potentially eligible. In fact, the average student has been receiving well over 75 aid sources.

4. How do you know which sources a student is eligible for? The key is the questionnaire which each student fills out. We ask about major, occupational goal, religion, parents' employer, union and military service, where the student wants to live, any graduate school plans, and special interests, hobbies, sports and the like.

5. Is financial "need" the most important factor? That is true in only about 30% of the scholarships. The others look for things like occupational goals, leadership, or academic merit.

6. What information is sent on each scholarship? The student receives the name of the grant, the eligibility factors, the amount of money available, and where to write. The Scholarship Bank will send the actual application for the scholarship to the student if requested.

7. Is it too late for this academic year? Probably not; with the number of sources to apply through, each has its own deadline. It all depends many times on whether the private source still has funds to give away. By law, non-profit foundations must give a percentage of their assets away every year, and that process continues throughout the year until that is done.

8. What areas of study are well funded? We have funds available in every academic discipline from anthropology to zoology. Business, teaching, engineering and the health fields are very well-funded, as are all fields for older female students. There are funds in virtually all disciplines.

9. How do students apply and what is the charge? Send a business-size stamped self-addressed envelope to The Scholarship Bank, 10100 Santa Monica Blvd., #750, Los Angeles, CA 90067. Cost is $17.50 when students sign up with a friend.

Supersaver update

By Janie Martin
Staff Writer

Finley Knowles, Vice-President of social life, has announced that due to the fact that many students have received supersavers on credit and not paid for them, there will be a supersaver update.

Finley said that about 70 students have not paid for their supersavers and a new red card will be issued to those who have paid.

"The Supersaver has worked out better than I expected. By having the money up front we were able to plan a schedule ahead of time," Finley stated.

Finley said that, since old College Hill is no longer available, anything that is not religious has to be shown in Fine Arts.

Upcoming activities include "The Apple Dumpling Gang," starring Don Knotts and Tim Conway, on January 22. Ten dollar door prizes will be given away to a few lucky supersaver owners. Also, SAC will be co-sponsoring White Wings, sponsoring a Marx Brothers movie and a Glen Garrett concert. "Superman" is coming up next quarter.

Catholic and Jewish theologians alike. George Williams, church history scholar at Harvard Divinity School, best sums up the belief of history's prominent theologians by saying, "Two-thousand years of Jewish-Christian history maintain that the fetus is a person with the right to life. We know very well that what has happened in the conception is the emergence of a new being and all it needs is time."

Until the last ten years, the Church of Christ has stood solidly against abortion. No theologian of any Christian sect has justified it until very recently. Today the Church neither offers social help for women and their babies, nor takes a unified stand against its legalization.

Some Christians believe anti-abortion legislation is wrong. They believe that in doing so we would be imposing our convictions upon the rest of the nation. Surely there is a plurality of beliefs in society, but does that mean we should close our mouths? In doing so we would deny our part in that plurality. If we believe that the unborn are human beings fashioned in God's image, it then follows that we must support legislation that prevents abortion. Proverbs 24:11-12 commands us to, "Rescue those who are being taken away to death; hold back those who are stumbling to the slaughter. If you say, 'Behold, we did not know this,' does not he who weighs the heart perceive it? Does not he who keeps watch over your soul know it, and will he not requite a man according to his work?" Since we know the practices continues we are culpable before God if we remain silent.

Now is the time to act on your convictions. We must remember that legislating against abortion is necessary, but not sufficient for the eradication of problems that result from unwanted pregnancies. We as Christians must show compassion and provide alternatives for women seeking abortions. In so doing we can be Christ's instrument of healing on this earth.

Dr. Cecil Paul selected as Greenlake '82 speaker

By Tom Felder
Editor

Mike Estep, general program director for campus-career ministries, has announced the selection of Dr. Cecil Paul as the morning presentation speaker for Greenlake '82. Dr. Paul currently serves as Professor and Director of Graduate studies at Eastern Nazarene College. He is also involved in individual and group counseling in the Boston area, and is the founder and executive director of the Beechwood Community Life Center and Beechwood Counseling Services.

Greenlake '82 is scheduled for August 17-22, and will provide an opportunity for approximately 1,000 Nazarene college students from across the United States and Canada to gather together for a week of worship, study, sharing and celebration. The event will be held at the American Baptist Assembly retreat center in Greenlake, Wisconsin.

The theme of this Greenlake '82 will be on personal holiness, specifically as it relates to the young adult. The retreat will also explore contemporary issues and determine their place in a Christian lifestyle.

Joining Dr. Paul will be such well-known holiness speakers as Dr. Jerald Johnson, Dr. John A. Knight, Rev. Gary Heneke, Rev. Steve Manley and Rev. Chuck Milhuff. These men will serve as the evening speakers, and their messages will be designed to support Dr. Paul's morning presentations.

Aside from the special services and study sessions, a variety of recreational activities will be available. These will include boating, golf, tennis, bicycling, and team sports.

Dr. Cecil Paul

Footpaths and beautiful scenery will also provide opportunities for quiet times.

Entertainment at the event will include popular Christian artists, as well as college and Summer Ministries teams.

Greenlake '82 is sponsored by the Department of Youth Ministries of the Church of the Nazarene, and is being coordinated by the Youth Ministries staff in conjunction with Nazarene Student Leadership Conference and Nazarene Higher Education. Questions should be directed to the office of Student Services or Mike Estep, 6401 The Paseo, Kansas City, Missouri 64131.

Clubs present

Bridal Show

By Sheri McMurrin
Asst. Features Editor

One of the highlights of the year, especially for those planning to get married, will be presented this month through the joint efforts of Trevecca's Sigma and Civinettes clubs. Bridal Penthouse, working with these clubs, will be co-sponsoring a bridal fashion show—"A Wedding Storybook"—to show off their new spring line of fashions. The bridal fashion show will be held on January, 21, at 7:00 p.m. in the gymnasium.

This show will have interesting ideas for bridal gowns, formal dresses, tuxedos and other formal wear, according to club members. The ladies modeling the Spring fashions will be selected representatives of Sigma and Civinettes, and the male models will also be Trevecca students.

The Mistress-of-Ceremonies for the show will be Marsha Blackburn, who is well-known in this field. She has been in pageants and also does some modeling. This Spring she will be MC for the National Bridal Show.

A variety of excellent entertainment has been scheduled to highlight the show. This will be provided by the students and will include music, drama, and ventriloquism. The fashion show will start and end with dramatic skits which have been put together by Sigma and Civinettes club members. Some of the entertainers will be Joe Lovell, Joyce Stover, Sharlee Haynes, Todd Webb, Tammy Tarter, and Jeff Herndon. The Trevecca Stage Band will also be playing throughout the show.

Since this is a major event there will be widespread publicity including commercials on over twelve radio stations and a television commercial featuring students Lori Hooper and Kim King.

There will be a $1.00 donation requested for admission. All proceeds will go to the clubs and will be used for special TPS projects. There will also be many valuable door prizes. First of all there will be four honeymoon packages including the Hyatt Regency, Marriott, Maxwell House and Opryland hotels. Other prizes will be a lunch for two at Silver Wings, dinner for two at Le Chateau and other prizes donated by Bridal Penthouse.

The sets and decorations will be built by club members and they are expecting approximately 900 people to attend.

nation and abroad. Her interpretations of Gershwin's music have received special recognition. One London magazine critic said he found it hard to imagine better trumpet playing, while another reviewer said, "The soft muted work of Susan Slaughter was a thing of beauty to hear."

One week of her vacation each year is devoted to performing recitals and making solo appearances with regional bands and orchestras and at colleges, such as the Lyceum program tonight.

Throughout her career, Miss Slaughter has attained numerous honors, such as her nomination by the editors of Ladies' Home Journal for their Woman of the Year Award; she was lecturer/recitalist at the National Trumpet Symposium; she has served as a member of the Board of Directors of the International Trumpet Guild and she is presently a faculty member of the St. Louis Conservatory of Music.

Miss Slaughter will present a concert tonight in the Wakefield Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. Tomorrow morning she will conduct a Master Trumpet class for trumpeters in the Nashville area.

After attaining her dream of being first trumpet in a major symphony, she realizes her life's goal is, "to use my skills to communicate God's love... to love everyone as God loves them. That is difficult at times, but that's what I want to do... talk to them, to treat them the way Jesus would."

Enrollment nears 900

The Winter quarter at Trevecca began last week with registration. For most, to think of registration brings to mind step 1, step 2, and the long hours sometimes involved.

According to Marty Eby of the Registrar's office, the expected enrollment for Winter Quarter, 1982 is to be approximately 880 students, about the same as Winter Quarter 1981. Mrs. Eby stated that this could be considered a good retention figure. Of the students enrolled, there were quite a few newcomers to Trevecca. Some of those are first time students, and others have been enrolled in previous years and had been away for awhile.

In talking with some new students, it was found that most have the same view of Trevecca. They feel that the spiritual atmosphere is great, and also commented on people being so friendly. It was the opinion of some that registration could have been somewhat more organized.

The entire student body was welcomed with a host of activities, including an all school skate, and a concert featuring the group Harvest. The Trojan basketball team also welcomed everyone back in their own way by chalking up a few big wins.
