"The Birth"

The original meaning of Christmas was the celebration of the birth of Jesus, in spite of the fact that many people make the twenty-fifth of December a day of celebrating events which are different and even opposite from what Jesus came to earth to promote. According to the announcement made by the angels, He came to bring peace.

I, personally, would like to promote the idea of celebrating two birthdays—the birth of Jesus and the birth of His Spirit in my life. In other words, the day when I was born again, the day when the Son of Righteousness arose in my life. The revival in which I was converted was a Christmas vacation revival. It was Christmas time; the snow was on the ground, and its whiteness covered the dirt and filth that previously could easily be seen. But more beautiful to me than that was the fact that my sins were covered by the Blood of Jesus, for which Cause He was come and was born as a Babe in Bethlehem of Judea, nineteen hundred and fifty-eight years ago. I am going to celebrate my forty-sixth spiritual birthday on December twenty-fifth.

This Christmas, and each Christmas from now on, the spirit of Christmas to me will be a double celebration. It might be that you would like to make it that way also, even though your second birth was not at Christmas time. Even though the day that you were born again was not the twenty-fifth of December, you might consider it appropriate to your celebration of the birth of Jesus to celebrate the day that you were born again, since His birth made it possible. If you have not been born again, why not choose for your spiritual birthday this Christmas season as early as possible? Don't want until the twenty-fifth of December in order to make it the same day that Jesus was born, but let Him come into your heart today, and then you won't need to depend upon a snow to have a "white Christmas." You can have a clean heart, whiter than the snow.

Register This Year!

Registration for the winter quarter at Trevecca Nazarene College will be December 30, 1958.

The reason for the early registration is that an Easter vacation is being planned. Also, the school term is scheduled to end sooner in the spring before the weather gets so hot.

Due to this, more days are to be given before Christmas Day this year in which to enjoy the last preparations and shopping for this wonderful occasion.

These changes are experimental.

Christmas Party Is Held Dec. 12

Trevecca's annual Christmas party, sponsored by the Freshman Class, was held Friday evening, December 12, in the college cafeteria.

Gene Cook, class vice-president, served as master of ceremonies of the program.

As is the custom, names were exchanged during chapel and the gifts were given out by Santa at the party.

The program was of a variety, including special songs, readings and group singing.

Five Groups Conduct Services

On Sunday, December 7, ten of the Nashville Nazarene Churches were visited by faculty members and singing groups. The purpose of the services was to solicit funds for the building of the proposed new library for the college.

McClurkan Memorial and Immanuel Churches were privileged to hear Rev. Leon Chambers, dean of students, speak. Beverly Forman, Edith Mingledorff, and Margie Dover sang for the congregation.

A male quartet, composed of Chuck Acheson, Gene Cook, Jim Hess, and Joe Moses, accompanied Dr. A. B. Mackey, president, to Grace Church of the Nazarene Sunday morning, and to Radnor on Sunday evening.

Rev. K. W. Phillips, dean of admissions, presented the message to the members of Third Church and Old Hickory Church. Singing in the interest of the school were Kemp Higgenbotham, Paul Jackson, Herman Rouse, and Sammy Phipps.

A ladies' trio with Lois Conkey, Yvonne Oakes, and Marilyn Stucki as members sang for the 11:00 service at Calvary Sunday morning, and for the 7:30 service at Woodbine, Sunday evening. Rev. C. E. Keys, field representative, effectively presented the needs of Trevecca College.

College Hill and Fatherland Street Churches heard Dr. F. F. Wise speak. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Shomo sang for these services.

"Hats Off" to Workers On New Building

Rev. V. Neil Richardson, college business manager, has led the way in the construction of the new building on the front of Trevecca's campus. He and his group worked all summer and the beginning of this fall.

The building will be occupied by the Scott Bolt and Screw Company the first of the year. This construction not only helps the looks of the college but also will help it financially. Thanks to the workers for their extra efforts on the new buildings.

Word is getting around that the next new building on campus will be Dr. and Mrs. Mackey's new home to be constructed on the private drive.

Accreditation Possible in '59; President, Dean Attend Meeting

"Are we really going to make it, or do we have to go back and work a little harder?"

This was probably one of the questions that Dr. A. B. Mackey and Dr. Homer J. Adams asked each other as they attended the sixty-third annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools December 1-4, 1958, at Louisville, Kentucky.

Their objective in attending the meeting was to apply for admittance of Trevecca Nazarene College into the Association. At the present it is not known whether admission will be granted or whether it will take more preparation and hard work.

Dr. Mackey and Dr. Adams were asked many questions in their session with the Admissions Committee concerning T.N.C.'s progress toward meeting the requirements for accreditation. They also received many ideas and suggestions from various speakers during the four days of sessions.

Some of the major questions that they were asked by the Admission Committee were: What has been done about large classes? What are the prospects for more doctorates? What have you done toward endowment? How many and what units are required for admission? Do you think you are ready for an inspection this year? Concerning these questions, Dr. Adams states, "We are thankful that we were able to give optimistic answers to these questions for T.N.C. has made great strides forward in recent years."

In addition to meeting with the committee, T.N.C.'s representatives also listened to many speakers and sat in on several discussion periods. One speaker talked about library needs of a college. Several items he pointed out were: You need to spend at least 4% of your educational dollar for the library; you should be seat about 30% of your enrollment in the library; the function of the library is to promote the educational and research program of the school.

Other suggestions or ideas for thought were: There is a very urgent need in colleges as well as high schools for caring for the superior student; have a conference each spring with the graduates asking them what courses they enjoyed the most (This leads to an opinion from the student as to which teachers are doing the best job); summer schools provide more opportunities for independent study.

It is the belief of the administration that if accreditation is not gained next year, it will be in the very near future. Dr. Adams says, "If the committee is willing to inspect us next year there is good reason to hope and believe we will be admitted."

Handel's "Messiah" Is Presented Dec. 7

The 19th annual community presentation of Handel's "The Messiah" was given at 3:00 p.m. Sunday, December 7, at the War Memorial Auditorium under the direction of Mr. Louis Nicholas. This was presented under the sponsorship of Peabody College and the Nashville Ministerial Association.

Those from Trevecca who participated were Mary Beth Richardson, Miss Barbara McClain and Professor Ramon Unruh.

Thanks to the Music Club and Ed Irwin for the strains of Christmas music coming from the McClurkan Building.

Ask Jean Ledford the following two questions: How does it feel to have your car run out of gas on Fifth Avenue? What is the secret of crossing Murfreesboro Road at 5:00 in the afternoon?

Music Club Sponsors Christmas Program

The Christmas Story was portrayed through scenes intermingled with refrains sung by a mass choir, Friday evening, December 5, in the Alumni Auditorium, at 8:00 p.m. This was sponsored by the Music Club.

Scenes beautifully representing "The Prophecy," "The Birth," "The Angels," "The Shepherds," and "The Wise Men" captured the attention of the audience.

The mass choir, made up of the A Cappella Choir, Ladies' Chorus, Men's Chorus, and the High School Choir, sang songs that were appropriate for each scene.

The miraculous story of Christmas was brought close to Trevecca. May the true meaning of Christmas that was so beautifully given through the medium of this program linger in the hearts of those that heard it—now in the holiday season and throughout the coming year and in years to come.

Washington, D. C. — Berlin's crisis provides the opportunity of a lifetime. The Communists demand that Berlin be made a "free city." The key word is "free," but the idea back of that word is too good to be limited to just one city. Why not an "all-free" Europe?

To make only one city "free" is no solution. It only compounds existing problems.

The Communists set up schemes with which to worry the Western Allies. Mostly these are adventures in propaganda. The Soviets even boldly pose among their own people as "liberators" in other lands.

In America there still is a certain timidity about using the word "liberation." John Foster Dulles mentioned it in his speeches during the 1952 presidential campaign and has not been forgiven since by his critics. He insisted that he meant "peaceful liberation," but the Soviets managed, with considerable assistance from certain partisans in America, to make it appear that America planned to use military force to effect "liberation."

But not withstanding the vicissitudes that the concept of "liberation" has experienced in circles where the word betrays a sense of fear, there is merit in urging the abandonment of the "status quo" in Eastern Europe. This theme has been championed in various pronouncements of policy by the United States government, but the secret of successful propaganda is iteration and reiteration, especially at the psychological moment.

TIME TO RAISE ISSUE OF FREEDOM FOR OTHERS

Today, for instance, when the Soviets have so deliberately, even if hypocritically, put the accent on Berlin as a "free city," the time is opportune for a broad discussion of freedom for Eastern Europe.

If a four-power conference can get the limelight on this issue, so much the better. It would be an impressive way to remind the people of the Soviet Union itself that freedom is still something they too may hope for some day.

Certainly the Western Allies are in a position to insist now that not only East Germany but Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Rumania, Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania be given the status of "free cities."

There could be a translation period during which, under United Nations auspices, a plan for withdrawal eventually for all foreign troops could be offered. The peoples of each country could be given the chance to conduct free elections and decide for themselves what military aid they need.

If countries which are truly free want foreign troops to remain on their soil, as the people of West Germany have chosen, this can be accepted as a basic principle. But everyone knows that not one of the "satellite" states has had uncoerced voting and that each country in the Soviet orbit has against its will been occupied by military forces commanded by Moscow.

NEW SOVIET TACT PUTS EMPHASIS ON TROOPS

The importance of western ground troops in Central Europe to ward off an attack by the Soviets has lately been minimized by those who think long-range missiles will make land forces unnecessary anyhow. But with the emphasis coming nowadays from Moscow on avoiding the use of nuclear weapons altogether, ground troops take on added military value.

In recent months the Soviets, aided and abetted unwittingly by some erratic philosophers on the Western side, have been urging the withdrawals of all troops—Soviet and Western—from Europe and the abandonment of the air bases of the United States there. But from the Soviet viewpoint this is a cover-up for continued rule by the Communist apparatus. Each nation that is really free should have the right to determine for itself what military protection it needs and wants against a potential invader.

A crusade for freedom throughout Europe by liberating the Eastern "Satellite" countries is one that could well engage the attention of the United States and its allies. They stand for true freedom without any military domination whatsoever. The smaller nations know the Soviets would never take the initiative in giving them that freedom. The whole problem, if approached from the standpoint of extending the principle of a "free city" in Berlin to encompass all of Eastern Europe, would put the Soviets on the defensive in the propaganda battles of the day.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Although I try not to wear my feelings on the visible side of life, I am a very unhappy person beneath the surface. Everyday as I stand in the cafeteria line my feelings are defeated and my spirit is broken all because of some peoples' thoughtlessness.

I run up the hill (ignore the mailbox until afterwards) to the cafeteria and still I get to stand in line about fifteen minutes before I start making any advancement toward the goal. Why does no one ever ask me to cut line, after all. . .

After ten or twelve "cut" line, plus a twenty-five member club group coming in ahead of me, I feel as though the whole world is against me.

When I finally round the corner and am on the last lap of the race my feelings begin to mend. But sad, sad is the wail that escapes me as the girls tell me of a terrible food shortage and a time rationing which has left me out again. With this the bell rings shrilly; I become "frustrated" and an uncontrollable hunger drive is stimulated as I trudge hungrily along to psychology class.

Could someone please help me by either letting me cut line, (or maybe inventing a double serving line) or just donating a simple hand-out?

Hopefully,
Miss Miserably Mistreated

Attitudes Are Important

Life is made up of many little, but important things — like attitudes. Stop! Take inventory of your attitudes. An attitude is a way of thinking—the spirit shown in a situation or toward some other person.

It is so easy to let non-constructive critical attitudes creep in. The devil's business is to create this sort of thing in the life of a Christian. And sometimes he succeeds because we are perhaps off guard, so to speak.

Attitudes reveal our personality — what we are. They play such an important role in the drama of life. In fact, attitudes have a leading part. Whether we have good friends and are well liked is partly determined by attitudes. How far we get in life is largely dependent upon our general attitude toward life.

Our attitudes, as Christians, can be bright. It is not necessary to agree with everyone at all times. But it is necessary to keep a right attitude at all times.

Courage consists not in blindly overlooking danger, but in seeing and conquering it.

—Richter

Noonday Prayermeeting

The Old Testament says that Daniel prayed morning, noon, and night. He was a strong man of God. This was, no doubt, the result of his prayer life. How do you measure up?

Everyday after chapel, with exceptions, a group meets in the "upper room" just behind the balcony. This meeting is known as "noonday prayer meeting." Testimonies are sometimes heard, choruses sung, and prayer requests are made known. Christ said, "Bear ye one another's burdens." Prayer is the main emphasis. There is no time limit set for prayer length. Just pray!

At this noon-day break, why not take time out for a short time of prayer. This may be just the spiritual encouragement you need to see you through the day. Usually the cafeteria is crowded right after chapel and there would be a period of waiting. So why not spend that time at "noon-day prayer meeting." This can prove to be a very profitable time.

Nashville Symphony Is Presented Dec. 15

The Nashville Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Guy Taylor, presented the second concert of the season on Monday evening, December 15, in the War Memorial Auditorium.

The guest artist was Robert Casadesus, a pianist. Mr. Casadesus was accompanied by the symphony orchestra.

A large group of Trevecca students and faculty have attended these first two concerts. Several outstanding artists are scheduled to appear at later dates and it is expected that even more from Trevecca will attend the concerts.

The Footpath to Peace

To be glad of life because it gives you the chance to love and to work and to play and to look up at the stars.

To be satisfied with your possessions, but not contented with yourself until you have made the best of them.

To despise nothing in the world except falsehood and meanness and to fear nothing except cowardice.

To be governed by your admirations rather than by your disgust. To covet nothing that is your neighbor's except his kindness of heart, and gentleness of manner.

To think seldom of your enemies, often of your friends and every day of Christ.

And to spend as much time as you can with body and with spirit in God's out of doors.

—Henry Van Dyke.

C. W. A. Notes

By Pat Losey

Without the power of prayer nothing genuine can be accomplished for God. No doubt all are aware of this fact, but how many times does this knowledge go unheeded?

Prayer is the Christian worker's source of strength for soul-winning. It is the very life-line of the Christian's soul.

Laxity in prayer leads to a feeling of self-sufficiency, a non-dependence upon God. And this feeling has no place in the life of a Christian.

There is a definite need of real and definite prayer in the various departments of Christian work. Prevailing prayer is necessary for results. The task at hand, that of winning souls, is big, but so is God. In order to effect results, we must have numbers. Let us keep an accurate record of those won to the Lord.

Along with prayer comes faith. Without faith little good can be accomplished for God. We must pray believing that God will hear and answer our prayers in behalf of Christian work and souls.

I Thessalonians 5:17 — "Pray without ceasing."

Winter

The snow fell lazily to the earth — covering its dirty cities, its sleeping plants, its stately homes—with a blanket of white. Sudden gusts of December wind piled drifts high against the country fence-posts and buildings. Smoke, curling from chimney tops, spoke of cozy rooms, fireside chats and family devotions. Lights, brilliant and glaring, pierced the darkness and street lights made hazy circles in the night. Everywhere winter had possessed the land—reigning in splendid white over its subjects.

The night was cold, but to two warmly-clad figures who walked slowly in the snow, it had no effect. The whispering trees towered high above them, lifting their once-leafy arms to the sky. A large gloved hand enclosed the tiny hand of a small boy. At intervals they stopped, looked at a tree, stared into the darkened sky, picked up a shivering bird and warmed it, or just ceased to walk and talk long enough to enjoy the thrills of companionable silence.

The winter is a resting time, he told the small one—a time for flowers, plants, and trees to relax their growth until spring. It is a time of enjoyment—when one lays his sickle aside and admires God's world. It is a time of introspection—a time when man looks into his heart and beholds the things that other seasons have planted there. It is a time of thankfulness—when harvests are reaped and stored. It is a time of sharing and giving—in remembrance of Him who gave His all.

The gloved hand squeezed the small one gently, and an understanding look passed between them. Snow was rapidly filling the tracks of the two, leaving no knowledge of their having passed.

Merry Christmas! It's vacation time again. Hooray!

I received a letter the other day from Santa Clause and he told me to tell Marilyn Stucki that he would not make it to her house this year. Marilyn, someday you will learn that you have to be good.

Herman Rouse was heard saying, "I'm bashful."

Shirley Bula, Helen Burch, and Kemp Higginbotham are still trying to get "up" in Shakespeare class. Good luck to all of you.

Gene Reynolds told me the other day that he wanted his name in the paper. Gene Reynolds.

Congratulations to Hilda Senn and Paul Hall. Best wishes.

We are happy to know that Chuck Acheson got a solo part in the Christmas program. He has a beautiful tenor voice.

Mrs. Spruill rates Robert Bush as one of the best practice teachers in the demonstration school.

We were very sorry to hear about the accident in which Ed Whittington was injured. But we're thankful that his condition is still improving. Eddie, we're praying for you.

We're also thankful for Ferrel Gomer's improved condition. Praise God from whom all blessings flow.

It is this time of the year that we commemorate the birth of our Lord.

"... For unto us a child is born unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder; and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. . ."

May this Christmas be the greatest ever because we worship the Christ.

See you next year!

"Labor of Love"

by Jack Phillips

Jack Phillips, a senior preparing for the mission field, began one of the most heart-stirring, mission-minded messages ever delivered by a student preacher in chapel by stating, "Many words have been spoken to describe the Christian life, but none are more true than 'labor of love.'"

Speaking on November 11, Jack presented three factors concerning this "labor of love." It is a "labor that God will not forget," a "labor divorced from self-love," and a "labor that is motivated by God's own love." His text was Hebrews 6:10-11.

Into the heart of his message he poured the burden which rests so heavily upon his own soul, and explained that God "has shown us how to love in giving Christ," and that "the object of our love is to love lost souls and lead lost men and women to Christ."

Following his marriage in June to Miss Janey Sue Little, he will be in the pastorate until ordination and then attend Seminary. With the completion of his work there, they will serve God and the Church of the Nazarene on the foreign mission field.

Journalism Class Attends Seminar

On Tuesday, December 9, the Journalism Class attended a Religious Journalism Seminar at the downtown YMCA, Nashville. This was the third such seminar sponsored by The Nashville Tennessean.

The morning program included a talk—"What Is Church News?" by James Carty, religious news editor of The Nashville Tennessean; a talk, "Pulpit and Press" by Dr. James E. Sellars, assistant dean, Vanderbilt Divinity School, and "What Churches Hope For from Newspapers," a discussion by Rev. E. Thomas Baker, Jr., executive secretary, Nashville Association of Churches, and The Rt. Rev. Msgr. T. P. Duffy, Pastor, Christ the King Catholic Church.

The seminar was designed to help church leaders do a more effective job of reporting their congregational news to the press, and gave much-needed information and help.

Dinner Is Served On Thanksgiving

Wondering what happened at T.N.C. during the Thanksgiving holidays?

On Thursday, November 27, forty-four happy Trevecca students enjoyed Thanksgiving dinner together in the college cafeteria. The dinner was prepared by the students under the efficient supervision of Miss Marie Peery and Mr. and Mrs. Walter White. Delicious turkey with all the traditional trimmings was served family style to the group.

During the course of the meal a short devotional program was presented. The group was led in singing the doxology, a time in which all hearts were lifted in thanksgiving.

Thursday night the students returned for games followed by a snack of the "left-overs" and additional favors. Some are already making plans to stay for the holidays next year. See you then.

We do not need more material development;
We need more spiritual development.

We do not need more intellectual power;
We need more moral power.

We do not need more knowledge;
We need more character.

We do not need more government;
We need more culture.

We do not need more law;
We need more religion.

We do not need more of the things that are seen;
We need more of the things that are unseen.

Open Letter - - - -

Miss Marie Peery, head resident, Hardy Hall, gave two young ladies a daily room check. Upon returning the next day, she found the following letter:

"Twas the week before exams and all through the dorm, not a bed had been made and all were forlorn.

All the clothes were hung on the back of the chairs in hopes that Miss Peery wouldn't come up stairs.

The kids were all tucked with their books under their heads and jumped right out after she went to bed.

When up on third floor there arose such a clatter that she came straight up to see what was the matter. She then opened the door; we leaped for the bed, even though our Shakespeare hadn't been read. When in the cluttered room what did she see, but two little girls wide awake as could be.

Now, Shirley; Now, Judy, you know this isn't right. You shouldn't study by the shining moonlight.

Tonight you get a light check, tomorrow a room check, if you leave your room in any such wreck.

She went down stairs with a stern admonition. See that you do better, or the fine box will have an addition.

So you see, folks, we have it rough with all this studying, room-cleaning and stuff."

We love you just the same,
Shirley and Judy

Science Club Has Active Quarter

The science club has been very active this quarter with Mrs. Leon Chambers as its sponsor. They have attended many films at the Children's Museum and have had several special luncheons.

To climax this quarter's activities a Christmas Party was held in the college cafeteria. This club is out to be club of the year and has already shown other clubs a lot of competition.

Sophomore Class To Furnish Hymnals For Chapel

Sophomore Class officers have decided on a class project for this year. It is that of furnishing new hymnals for the chapel.

The Sophomore Class believes that this will be a very worthwhile project. It will not only give points to the class toward the much wanted "Class of the Year" honor, but it will be a service to the school also. The hymnals will be of great use now and in years to come.

The greatest thought that ever enjoyed the attention of my mind was that of MY INDIVIDUAL RESPONSIBILITY TO GOD.

—Daniel Webster

I'm Sorry - I Forgot

I attend classes all day

I concentrate at night,

But my grades look like

They were hit with a blight.

My brain—like Vesuvius,

Well . . . it just erupts:

Especially 'round test time

This sickness comes on.

One of the very early symptoms

Is a long, drooping yawn.

Next your eyelids come together

Then your muscles sorta wilt,

Next you find yourself tucked safely

Underneath your roommate's quilt.

Then early next morning

When exams are passed out,

Everything looks rather foreign;

I forgot, without a doubt!

Doozy Duds

By Carolyn Wiley

Have you done all your Christmas shopping yet? If not here are a few suggestions along the clothing line.

Why not make a holiday apron for that favorite aunt. A half yard of one of the lovely Christmas materials and a yard of ribbon will do the job.

Be practical and think of Dad's foot comfort. Buy him a pair of soft-cushioned crepe soled house slippers.

A gay "wash-and-wear" print blouse will please any room-mate.

For big brother (or little brother) choose the "new-look" in a paisley or solid shirt, in wash and wear, of course.

And if you're real smart, girls, for "the" man, knit a wool scarf to go with his overcoat.

Belts always make nice gifts. For sports togs, try the cowhide with its brass motif. Or perhaps you like the new style chain belt with initials for the personal touch. If you want something dressy, choose a soft, capeskin belt which closes by touch.

If your room mate's mother asked for a hint, girls, why not suggest a fringe-bottomed wool knit slip top sweater. They come in tweeds and solids. To top the outfit mention a wool and mohair knit tam. While speaking of headwear, you can let the winter winds blow if you have a snug wool hood.

Let your sister start the new year out right with a heavy golden medallion-trimmed buckskin clutch bag. They are going to be "it" this year,

One yard of felt would make a darling skirt for little sister and you will have enough left over to make several felt novelties for your friends, such as a coat-hanger cover, glasses, mirror and comb case to match, or even a knitting bag.

Whether your gift be large or small, expensive or inexpensive, remember why we have Christmas after all and give in the right spirit. May you have a safe and merry Christmas.

The Speech Club Has Party Dec. 6

On Saturday evening, December 6, the members of the Speech Club were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Greene at the Speech Club's annual Christmas party. More than twenty members and their dates shared a well-planned evening of entertainment and fellowship.

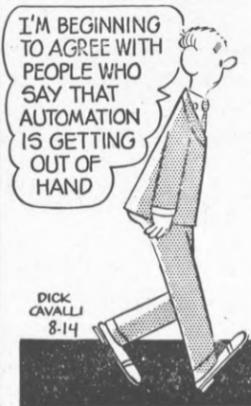

The Speech Club, one of the leading contenters for "club of the year" honors, is making great strides toward that honor under the leadership of President Paul Jackson and sponsor, Mrs. Mabel Greene.

Chatter Box

By Charles Kirby

The football season officially ended with the All-Star game on December 4. Those that witnessed the game saw an exciting one from start to finish. The Alphas proved that they were not to be beaten this year as they came back the last quarter to solidly trounce the Stars.

All-Star Round Up

The Alphas dominated the voting this year, putting seven men on the team. Bob Cook, Moody Gunter, Paul Godby, Al Wood, Wendell Poole, Bruce Haddix and Dan Kunselman. The Betas placed three men: Jack Meeks, John Evilcizer and Jim Stocks. The Deltas placed two men: Paul Jackson and Charles Kirby. Almost everyone will agree that this group could work together as a powerful unit.

We would like to wish Ed Whittington a speedy recovery from the accident he suffered. Ed is a fellow Delta and a good all-round athlete. Those who know him cherish his friendship.

BASKETBALL BITS

Those that claim basketball as their favorite sport are longing for the season to begin. Several of the fellows have been sharpening their shooting eye for the season that promises to be a good one at T.N.C. Among the new comers to watch are Bob Sisson and Bob Cook of the Alphas. These two fellows, joining Wendell Poole, will make the Alphas championship material.

We would like to encourage everyone to be a basketball booster this year. Start with the opening game of the year and continue throughout the season. We are expecting to see the stands filled to capacity at every game. Remember we can not use the excuse of no seats like several used during football. Let's get the enthusiasm rolling better than it has ever been before. We are depending on each of YOU.

All I Want for Christmas

- Charlene Knox — My two front teeth.
- Gene Cook — On Mrs. Phillips' suggestion, I want a New Webster's Collegiate Dictionary.
- Nancy Casto — A crew-neck sweater.
- Melvin Welch — A problem solver.
- Gerald Spear — A hi-fi set.
- Miriam Hudgins — A pair of ice skates.
- Linda Pierce — A big, tall, handsome blond by the name of Jim.
- Garnald Dennis — A new pair of socks.
- Mrs. Orndoff — I'd settle for a Nash Rambler.
- Mary Jane Still — A brown crew-neck sweater and a skirt to match.
- Ed Sisson — A live doll.
- Theresa Gunter — A tall, dark, handsome man.
- Russell Fetty — A new tricycle.

Alphas Bounce All-Stars 38-12; Victory Comes in Last Quarter

1958 ALL-STARS

The All-Stars, playing for three quarters with high spirits, threw a scare at the champion Alphas. But as the game entered the last quarter the Stars began to tire greatly and were solidly defeated.

The Stars were the first to strike the end zone. On their march to pay dirt, Stocks threw to Gene Cook 35 yards down field to put them in striking distance. Four plays later Stocks threw a pass which was deflected off the Alpha's Godby and Evilcizer, playing heads up ball, plucked the pigskin out of the air and stepped across the goal line with just three minutes of play having elapsed in the first quarter. The extra point failed, but the Stars lead 6-0.

The Alphas, seeming to be stunned about the situation, began to go to work at once. Passes to Godby and Wood covering 30 yards; each put them on the Betas 20 yard line. Just two plays later Gunter threw to Cook for the score. The extra point failed ending the first quarter of thrilling action with the score tied 6-6.

During the second quarter the Betas were able to find the range on a few passes, but the Alphas held on tight to stop any dangerous threat.

Near the end of the first half of action, Bob Cook broke loose and eluded would be taggers to scamper 40 yards for the Alphas' second score. The extra point failed once again and the half ended with the Alphas out in front 12-6.

In the third quarter the Alphas were the first to strike pay dirt as a series of passes put them on the ten yard line. Gunter threw from here to Godby for the score. Again the Alphas were unable to find the extra point.

Shortly after the Alphas had built up the lead to two touchdowns Stocks found Jackson floating in the end-zone and was able to connect for the score. The Betas had trouble with the extra point also and trailed 18-12 at the end of the third quarter.

The fourth quarter saw the Alphas take advantage of the tiring All-Stars, and were able to push across three touchdowns, the first coming on a 24 yard pass to Godby. Wood took the extra point. The second score came on a 3 yard run by Gunter, with Cook getting the extra point. The final score of the quarter and of the game came on a 40 yard run by Vaughn, who came off the bench to join the scoring brigade. The score read 38-12 with the Stars going down in defeat.

"Because, I do not know him."

How often we would show "friendly" attitudes if we "knew" those with whom we associate.

Love covers a multitude of faults; full knowledge of the ambitions, desires and motives of another will cause us to be more understanding and kind.

Girls Are Planning Basketball Season

The girls are getting out their tennis shoes, and are planning a very active basketball season. The Alpha team, of course, is out for the trophy again this year. But the Deltas are determined to give them some real competition. From rumors the Beta society will really rally this year, since Esther White plans to return next quarter.

However, taking an overall view of the teams, it seems that they will all have an equal number of former players with them. The Delta Society has a few girls who have been together since their freshman year. They plan to really show some teamwork.

All girls who plan to play must join a society immediately. This is a good opportunity to show some good sportsmanship, and in return receive plenty of exercise.
