TREVECCA NAZARENE COLLEGE

January 22, 1960

Snowflakes seemingly big enough to ride on came down January 5 to the wild delight of our Florida students, some of whom had never seen snow. Before midnight there were seven inches of fluffy snow, except for the many places where Trevecca students had had snowball battles. Snowmen decorated the campus and almost as many snowballs flew in the air as did snowflakes. The slippery sidewalks and the hill behind McKay Hall provided convenient places for sleighing. After a hard snow fight, there is nothing like eating snow cream while toasting cold feet in front of the electric heater.

Etiquette Week Sponsored by Sophomores

Etiquette Week, January 18-22, sponsored by the sophomore class, was a week of special emphasis on manners and rules of social behavior. The week was highlighted by five special chapel programs, six posters, an etiquette book, and the special Friday evening program.

The week began with the presentation of the etiquette book by the class president, Gene Cook. Dr. Mackey spoke on professional etiquette and that which pertains to the business world.

On Tuesday the student body was represented by speakers from the four classes. These were: Dale Melton, freshman; Joyce Shaw, sophomore; Edith Mingledorff, junior; and Paul Jackson, senior. Their respective topics were, "What a Boy Expects and Appreciates in a Girl," and "What a Girl Expects and Appreciates in a Boy."

On Wednesday the special speaker was Mrs. Mackey. She spoke on church etiquette, which included behavior, proper dress, etc., for both men and women. Church, in her topic, not only meant a religious service as such, but weddings, funerals, etc.

Thursday was set aside for ministerial etiquette for both ministers and their families. Professor and Mrs. Chambers were selected to speak on these topics. They gave some important rules and ideas for those who plan to be ministers, and

Junior Class Has All-School Party

Under the leadership of the president, Melvin Welch, the Junior Class sponsored an all-school party, Saturday evening, January 2, in the student center.

This was a well-planned evening of entertainment.

for those who would like to be ministers' wives.

On Friday a panel discussion concluded the series of chapel programs. The panel discussed common problems of etiquette: problems of social, professional, and church etiquette. Those on the panel were: Gene Cook, leader; William Roddy, Davie Edmondson, Nancy Rushing, and Mary Jane Still.

The whole week's emphasis was concluded by the Friday evening program. It was built around "The Court of Manners." The judge, Terrill Haddix, heard the accusations brought against Sammy Sophomore, Wayne Clancy. The clerk, Linda Pierce, introduced six different witnesses who had proof of misdeeds done by Sammy. The witnesses were: Mr. Dormitory, Dennie Hage; Miss Social, Sandra Cox; Mr. Class Room, Bob Cook; Miss Cafeteria, Ann Bohannon; Mr. Chapel, Ronald Doolittle; and Miss Church, Miriam Goodwin. After all the accusations were heard, the judge sentenced Sammy Sophomore to view two films, "Social Etiquette" and "Table Manners."

National Teacher Exams To Be Given February 13

The National Teacher Examinations, prepared and administered annually by Educational Testing Service, will be given at 160 testing centers throughout the United States on Saturday, February 13.

At the one-day testing session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which includes tests in Professional Information, General Culture, English Expression, and Non Verbal Reasoning; and one or two of twelve Optional Examinations designed to demonstrate mastery of subject matter to be taught. The college which a candidate is attending, or the school system in which he is seeking employment, will advise him whether he should take the National Teacher Examinations and which of the Optional Examinations to select.

A bulletin of information (in which an application is inserted) describing registration procedures may be obtained from college officials, school superintendents, or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey. Completed applications, accompanied by proper examination fees, will be accepted by the TES office during November and December, and early in January so long as they are received before January 15, 1960.

Pole Falls Causing Near Injury

On Wednesday afternoon, December 30, Mr. Paul Greene barely escaped what might have been a serious accident when a light pole on the campus broke and fell to the ground. Mr. Greene climbed the pole to cut off electric wires leading to the president's old home which was in the process of being moved. When he cut the wires on one side of the pole, the pull of the wires on the other side was too great a strain for the pole which had decayed in the center. Mr. Staggs heard the pole crack and told Mr. Greene who hurried down the pole. Mr. Greene ran to the walk and warned students to move out of the way. Just then the pole fell, bringing with it some live wires with 1200 volts of electricity. We praise God that no one was injured.

President, Deans Attend Annual Church Sessions

January not only brought the beginning of a new year, but also the annual session of the general church. Early in January Dr. Mackey, Dr. Adams, and Dr. Greathouse left for Kansas City.

Dr. Mackey has been on the General Board for over twenty years. He is a member of the Department of Education and also the Department of Church Schools. There are thirty-three members on the board. The purpose of the board is to take care of all the church business between the general assemblies. It carries out the plans enacted by the previous assembly.

Dr. Adams represented the Southeastern states on the Young Peoples' General Council. These members are elected by the General Assembly and carry out all business of the N.Y.P.S.

The Nazarene Book Committee also met at this time. Dr. Greathouse is a member of this committee. They review all the books which are written by Nazarene authors. This committee meets more often than do the others.

Florida District Sets Trevecca Day

Dr. John L. Knight, superintendent of Florida district, proclaimed January 3 as district wide "Trevecca Day." A number of our faculty members journeyed to sunny Florida in an effort to raise money for the new Mackey Library. All churches received pledges and offerings for the library fund.

A Cappella Choir Presents Programs

The A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Prof. Ramon Unruh, has made several public appearances this school year in churches, chapel, banquets and Ft. Campbell Air Force Base. Also they had a joint T. V. program with the First Church Choir.

On January 17 Fatherland Street church the choir sing at their morning worship service.

Since the Christmas holidays the choir members have really buckled down" in preparation for their annual tour of the southern states beginning March 23.

Trevecca Welcomes New Winter Quarter Students

Trevecca welcomed a number of new arrivals who enrolled as Winter Quarter students. They are the following: Jeanette Beel, freshman, of Decatur, Illinois; Carolyn Sue Colling, freshman, of Pineville, West Virginia; Gene Frame, junior, of Williamsburg, Indiana; Edwin Fichter, high school student, of Brooksville, Florida; Lea Harner, junior, of Cleveland, Ohio; Frank Hawks, high school student, of Lexington, Kentucky; Vernon Hurles, high school student, of Lakeland, Florida; Ilene Miles, freshman, of Sarasota, Florida; Eva June Perdue, freshman, of Pineville, West Virginia; Jack Stone, freshman, of Maysville, Kentucky; Vernon Walter, high school student, of Essington, Pennsylvania; Lucille Rowe, freshman, of Memphis, Tennessee; Carolyn Dennis, high school student, of Hagerstown, Indiana.

There are also several former students who are returning to continue their education. They are: Ray Brunet, of Dickson, Tennessee; Louise Preece, of Inez, Kentucky; Mitchell Quick, of Bennettsville, South Carolina; Beulah Riddle, of Albany, Kentucky; Ann Benson, of Princeton, Florida.

Honor Society

Every school has its club or society for students with high scholastic achievements. On T. N. C.'s campus the Honor Society is that organization. Although this society is seldom in the limelight, it is worthy of much mention.

To be eligible for membership in this organization, one must have a 2.5 scholastic average for the preceding school year. Members of the society are named during the final chapel service at the end of the school year.

Music Club Sponsors Program

The Music Club was sponsor of the first Fine Arts program of the quarter, Friday, January 1. Two films entitled "One Love: Conflicting Faith" and "A Better World Begins With Me" were shown.

According to the club president, Edith Mingledorff, plans are being made for other activities that will help the club reach its goal of club of the year. With all members working hard this goal can be reached.

Chapel Etiquette

Since these rules for chapel or church will improve any worship service where practiced, it is suggested that this article be circulated among colleges and churches everywhere.

1. Come into chapel as noisily as possible. It is a good place to let off steam after the strain of morning classes.
2. Place your books and coat where they can be grabbed in a hurry when needed.
3. Talk during the song service. The faculty will think you are singing, and the music will be loud enough to make your conversation private.
4. Keep on talking during the message. Those around you really don't want to hear the speaker anyway.
5. Be sure to bring a book for outside reading with you. Twenty-five or thirty pages a day will soon take care of all outside reading requirements.
6. Bring your notes when you have to study for an afternoon test. Look up once in a while so that the speaker will think you are listening.
7. You could even write a letter to Mom or to your pastor. They will be glad to know that you wrote it in chapel, as this is an indication that you make every minute really count.
8. Be sure to write notes to those around you. You must not neglect your social life while here at Trevecca.
9. Start fidgeting and looking at the clock about 11:40. This will let the speaker know that he should close his message. He probably can't tell time anyway.
10. During the closing prayer, put on your coat, scarf, and gloves; pick up your books; step out into the aisle if possible, and be ready to run when the amen is said. All this adds to the worshipful atmosphere of the service. This also gives you the honor of leading a grand stampede toward cars, the post office, and the cafeteria. It would be such a disgrace to be the last one out of the auditorium.

After all the work involved in making up this list, it is found that most of the students at Trevecca refuse to abide by them.

Current Politics

Politics is a topic of much discussion these days. Is everyone not aware that this is the year for the presidential election?

One by one the candidates are pitching their hat into the ring. The big question at this lap of the race is who will be the Republican and the Democratic candidates?

Until a few weeks ago there seemed to be two strong runners in the Republican Party: John D. Rockefeller, Jr., governor of New York, and Richard Nixon, the present vice-president of the United States. To the surprise of the public and many of his ardent supporters, Mr. Rockefeller seems to have withdrawn from the race, leaving Mr. Nixon to carry the G. O. P. banner.

In the Democratic Party the choice of candidates is not so simple. Since the past eight years have been in the control of the Republicans, the Democrats are very concerned that they choose a candidate who will bring their party into power.

At present, John Kennedy, senator from Massachusetts, seems to be a likely Democratic candidate. However, because he is a Catholic many believe his chances for the presidency will be greatly lessened.

As you know, a Catholic has never held such a high office in our government. In 1924 Alfred Smith was the first Catholic to enter the presidential race, and he was defeated. With the possibility that a Catholic may again try for this high office, many American citizens are very carefully considering what effect such a move will have on our form of government. You can readily see why the Democratic Party is concerned about this question. If it is to win, its candidate must be acceptable by the public.

In the coming days many campaign speeches will be heard. And, if the politicians follow tradition there will be considerable "mud-

High School Highlights

A big highlight for the high school department was the Christmas party. The entire high school division was entertained with a high school student council at the Christmas party sponsored by the Student Center on December 15.

The highlight of this party was a brief message by Professor Jerry Costa, the principal. At the conclusion of his message, the three high school sponsors were presented gifts from their classes. Mr. Costa, senior sponsor, received a Bible. Mr. C. T. Duckett, junior sponsor, received a white shirt and tie. Mr. Lewis Pennington, freshman-sophomore sponsor, received a billfold.

Gifts were exchanged under the beautifully decorated Christmas tree prepared by the decoration committee which was composed of Karen Unruh, Faye McDowell, Judy Gibson, Carol Roberson, Henry Staggs, and Mary Ann Swink. Everyone joined in singing Christmas carols, after which refreshments were served by the refreshment committee composed of Carol Richardson, Karen Unruh, Judy Gibson, Faye McDowell, Sue Cain, Judy and Donna Mobley, Alma Jean Kelly, Elaine Evans, and Frances Cottrell.

The class sponsors were not the only ones who received special gifts. Ask Beverly Donegon and Mary Ann Swink what they received. And from whom?

Santa Claus was so busy making out tests, Dr. Wise said, that he could not be present at the party, but all enjoyed the gifts he left for them under the tree.

To Trust and Pray

"But Jesus, it's so hard to simply kneel and trust and pray . . . I've thought it through, and I'm quite sure

There is a better way. I must know all about it—I must comprehend it all! Thou must give me all the answers, Then I know I'll never fall.

I'll trust Thy Word, if I can see Just how it all should be— I'll trust Thy grace, if I can know That Thou art near to me. I'd pray, if I could only know That God would answer prayer— I'd bring Thee all my burdens, If I knew that Thou didst care."

I prayed this prayer, and sought the Lord; No answer came at all. I questioned, and I wondered If He'd heard my feeble call. And then He showed me clearly That He wanted me to stay Within the center of His will, And learn to trust and pray.

slinging." As free American citizens let us carefully consider our choice of candidates. Our freedom depends upon the strength of our government, and the strength of our government depends greatly upon our leaders.

The Story of TreveccaSome of our Newer Buildings

There have been some changes in the campus in the last decade that have been great steps forward. In the '50's there were several buildings erected and some of the others have been redone.

The Fine Arts building was begun in 1952. Those who were here remember when the work began and followed the progress with great interest. One of the blessings of this campus is the vast amount of building material under the ground. When the basement was cleared for the Fine Arts, the stone which was removed was put aside to be used in the erection of the building. This beautiful building has added much to our campus. The physical beauty in itself is a great asset to Trevecca. The enlargement of classroom space, which was badly needed, has been a help both in enlarging curriculum and enrollment. The Fine Arts now houses the departments of speech, music, and education-psychology. The auditorium in this building has become the center of student program activity. We are thankful for the Fine Arts building.

When McKay Hall was damaged by fire in 1954, one of the changes made was the removal of the cafeteria from the basement of McKay. What is now the Student Center was the kitchen, and the extension of the concrete beyond the wall of the Student Center was the floor of the cafeteria. Our leaders here at Trevecca had long seen the need for a change in this respect. Now we have a fine cafeteria which is a great addition to our campus. We can see the need for enlargement of our dining facilities. If we grow in the next decade as much as we have in the past one, we will need much more room.

When one comes up the private drive he will see our president's new home. This is a beautiful dwelling. "This new home marks a milestone in the history of Trevecca." This statement was made during a conversation between one of the faculty and a student. Certainly this is a wonderful addition to our school. We rejoice with Dr. and Mrs. Mackey, and thank God for this newest building on campus.

Honor Roll Requirements

The fall quarter has passed. Every student's scholastic marks have gone down in history. Were your marks such that your name will be listed among the school's honor roll students?

If this is your first year at T. N. C., possibly you do not know the requirements for being on the honor roll. According to information obtained from the registrar, there is one requirement. You must have a total of forty quality points for the quarter. That does not mean you must have all A's.

Perhaps you were slightly below par last quarter. Don't give up. Just put forth a little more effort this quarter.

C.W.A. REPORTS

A nine-year-old child on a Sunday afternoon stares at a pale green wall while several other homeless children gaze into the face of a television, attempting to forget the fears and uncertainties of their young lives.

The place is Juvenile Court. Its inhabitants are adolescents awaiting the decisions of the Nashville courts with regard to their immediate futures. Some will be sent to state schools, some to foster homes, while a few will return to the homes of their parents.

An elevator door slides open and presents several Trevecca students with their Bibles in hand. Mingling among the unloved children, the students smile and encouragingly invite them into the dining room for devotional services.

The singing begins developing into a wave of exuberance. The Christians testify to salvation. A gospel-inspired preaching service begins with prayer and ends with an altar call.

The students mingle among the non-Christians inviting them to Christ. With a glad tear in his eye a child accepts forgiving grace as he confesses his sins before Christ.

Dormitory LifeOffers Advantages

As the college students live inconveniently crowded, it is often wondered what good dorm life presents.

Each person in the dormitory has a different personality and disposition. Even though this brings problems, it also prepares the students for life. This situation enables dormitory mates to make sacrifices, be more concerned with what is said to others, and to work on having pleasing actions.

There are three types of dormitory mates: those who are too particular in everything—clothes, room, looks, etc.; those who are indifferent; and those who are between the two former ways. The latter is the most pleasing. These people are concerned with situations and to their ability make the best of everything, but yet are not too particular.

These three sets of students live together, making adjustments, training for life ahead.

Yes, it is little known that the crowded dorm is an advantage. The challenge given to the dorm students of Trevecca Nazarene College is that they realize this benefit, and each individual work on his personality and disposition. This will enable him to be well prepared to face a world of clashes, differences, and disappointments—and throughout it all, spread the joy of being a Christian with high ideals.

Shannon's Sidelines

Greetings! I hope that you had a Merry Christmas and—well, yes, a Happy New Year, too.

I am sure everyone has made resolutions in some way or another—maybe to be “up” each day in Miss Person’s class, to turn outside reading reports in weekly for Dr. Adams’ class, to get newspaper articles in on time for the journalism class, etc. This is the usual thing to do.

Statistics were pointed out in one class that there are more married students in it than single students. One married student suggested to a single student that he advertise in the paper for a wife. Not a bad idea.

Does everyone know that Melvin Welch got a new stereo for Christmas? He has three records—Roger Williams, Roger Williams, and Roger Williams.

It surely was good to have some “old timers” visiting on campus after the holidays—Mildred Pearson and Freda Johnson.

Those who attended the party given by the Junior Class on January 2 witnessed a drastic fall by our Student Council president, Kemp, that was a beautiful slide.

We regret very much that Mr. Phillips has been ill. Glad to see you back in classes, Professor.

Congratulations to Bess Pearson and Charles Kirby on their recent engagement.

Margaret McDonald received a blow on the nose by some boy’s elbow. She received a split nose bone. Does anyone know what happened to the boy’s elbow?

What a beautiful snow we had! And what about the big snowman the boys built—he surely looked great!

News flash—Wayne Clancy has not missed a class so far this year. He even went to chapel when they were not checking attendance! He and Dr. Adams also have made a resolution. What is it, Wayne?

Helen Burch reports that she is “sweet.”

PARTING THOUGHT: Confucious said, “It is better to play second fiddle than to get kicked out of the orchestra.”

Recent Visitors On Campus

A group of Olivet students, Glenda Cox, Ted Griffin, and Gary Wilson, from Clearwater, Florida, stopped by the campus on their way back to school after the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Charles Still from Charlotte, North Carolina, were visitors at Trevecca at the beginning of the quarter. Mr. Still, father of Mary Jane Still, has been a visitor here previously.

Recent visitors on the campus were Henrietta Kline and her five children: James, Mary, Carol, Bertha, and Bobby. The family were guests of the V. Neil Richardson family. Mrs. Kline, Mrs. K. W. Phillips, and Mrs. Richardson sang in a trio during their school days at Trevecca.

Mrs. Elsie Bright, grandmother of Grace and Ruth Bright, visited Trevecca recently.

Inez Carter, from Houston, Mississippi, was a recent visitor of her cousin, Charlene Knox. Miss Carter came to take her test at the Baptist Hospital, where she plans to enter the school of nursing in June. She is a former student of Trevecca.

Essential Elements For Christian Life

As we look back over the old year most of us are keenly aware of our faults and failures. It has not been an easy year and much improvement could and should have been made.

In this new year all of us want to go forward on the road of life. At the end of this new year we want to be able to say, “It has been a good year and I have grown much spiritually.” There is no particular reason why we should not go far and do great things for the Lord in 1960. We should all resolve in our hearts to be found trying.

Following are eight resolutions for this new year that should be of great help to each of us.

- R emove from my heart any idols
- E arly in the day seek the Lord
- S cripture reading daily
- O n top emotionally
- L ove for everyone
- V ariety of interests daily
- E njoy the presence of the Lord
- D epend on providential help

In these eight resolutions we find the essential elements for a successful Christian life. Idols in a person’s life are not always things you see. An idol could be friends, ambitions, money, family, etc. Anything in a person’s life which takes first place over God becomes an idol.

Mrs. Phillips, in her classes, has been advising us to seek the Lord early in the day. The day will take on a whole new outlook if we ask the Lord’s help and guidance.

All of us know how important daily scripture reading is. It gives us a background to build on. Those people who argue that the Bible is uninteresting are usually those who do not read it regularly. To the consistent Bible reader it is a fascinating book.

To be on top emotionally means to maintain a balanced emotional level. Do not be blue and downcast, but, on the other hand, do not be uncontrollably hilarious.

Love for everyone is taught throughout the Bible. If a person genuinely loves everybody and shows it, he will have few, if any, enemies. A smiling face can greatly encourage a sad heart.

Variety of interests is especially needed around a school. It is so easy to get in a rut and become bored with life. Plan different activities; do things for others, and forget yourself once in a while.

Enjoy the presence of the Lord. It is truly a privilege to serve God, and we should be joyful and have a glow about us that tells everyone that God dwells within.

Attend Friday Evening Programs

A college education should include spiritual, mental, physical, and social development. We develop spiritually by attending chapel, going regularly to church, maintaining private devotions, participating in Christian work, and by attending school revivals. We are helped physically through our health classes, physical education classes, the School Health Service, and by a schedule which gives dormitory students enough time for sleep, work, and play. Our mental development is stimulated by daily assignments, term papers, examinations, class lectures, and blue books. When it comes to our social development, we are largely on our own. Of course, the college provides opportunities in this field, but it is up to us personally to take advantage of them or not.

One of the big items on the social calendar is the regular Friday evening program in the Fine Arts auditorium. These programs are sponsored by the various clubs and classes, and the type of program varies from week to week. There are films, recitals, plays, panel discussions, etc. Some of the plays are spiritually uplifting such as the play sponsored by the Junior Class, “The Lost Church.” Some programs are for entertainment only, while other stress education. The film, “One Love but Two Faiths” was a combination of all these elements.

Make a New Year’s resolution that you will not miss another one of these programs. Incidentally, if you are called upon to participate in one of these programs, cooperate and do your best. Your reward will be an enrichment of your social life.

“I’m sorry—I quite forgot your party the other evening.”
“Oh, weren’t you there?”

Boss: “You are twenty minutes late again. Don’t you know what time we start work at this factory?”
New Employee: “No, sir, they’re always at it when I get here.”

Depend on providential help. God is always with us and is always ready to help in every situation. It is up to us to recognize His presence and to learn to depend on Him. God is interested in us and cares for our every need. If we learn to trust Him for little things, we automatically depend on Him for big things.

Tipping Is Part of Culture

America has many great customs in which we all participate to some extent. These were started many years ago and have been passed on to our generation as a part of our social heritage. Among those is the topic of this article, tipping.

When you walk away from your table after enjoying a meal in a nice restaurant, do you leave with a sense of pride or of guilt? Is your waitress happy or sorry she served you? There is more at stake than merely your small contribution. Modern wage scales are adjusted to include this American custom. Most waitresses receive only one to two dollars per meal they serve plus the tips they receive. Some receive nothing but tips. Thus it can easily be seen that the waitress is depending on you for the greater part of her wages.

The well-mannered person’s friend, Emily Post, has this to say on the subject. “The ten percent rule of yesterday is today at least fifteen and sometimes even twenty! In an average restaurant a reasonably accurate rule is still a minimum tip of twenty-five cents for one person or for a bill that totals less than two dollars. Forty-five or fifty cents for a bill of three dollars to four dollars. In a restaurant with tablecloth, the minimum tip expected would be fifteen percent.”

The trying position for waitresses in restaurants near colleges is that students compose a large percentage of their customers. Often the student’s level of tipping is considerably lower than that suggested or practiced.

After reading this, when you leave a restaurant table, leave it with a feeling of pride. Make the waitress happy to see you. Chances are you will receive much better service.

“New Look” Given To Cafeteria Trays

Have you noticed that the cafeteria serving trays have a new look? Stacks of pink and blue trays have replaced the dull brown ones. Not only does this change make for a warmer atmosphere in the cafeteria, but it gives the food a more appetizing appearance on the tray.

It seems that Mr. Klintiver, the school dietician, has just sprayed the brown trays with a rubberized paint. It is amazing what a new coat of paint can do!

Watch Night Service

“Let’s pray the old year out and the new in,” was the call to the watch night service. A large group of students and faculty members met in the McClurkan Chapel at 11:00 p.m. to worship God in the last few minutes of 1959. Harold Derryberry was in charge of the service. The service was enriched with congregational singing, testimonies, special songs, and prayers. A few minutes before twelve everyone knelt around and near the altar and “prayed the old year out and the new year in.”

Wedding Bells

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Pearson announce the engagement of their daughter, Ferial Bess, to Charles Lee Kirby, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Kirby of Memphis, Tennessee.

Bess, a junior, is majoring in music and minoring in speech. She comes from Houston, Mississippi.

Charles, a sophomore, is majoring in religion and minoring in history.

An early fall wedding is planned.

Leap Year

Leap Year is the name given to every year of 366 days. Julius Caesar, in reforming the calendar, arranged that in every fourth year February should have 29 days instead of 28.

The name “leap year” is perhaps due to the notion that the calendar takes a leap of one day every fourth year to make up for its ordinary year being one-fourth too short. Every year is a leap year which is divisible by four without remainder, except the concluding years of centuries of which every fourth is a leap year; thus the years 1800 and 1900 were not leap years, but 2000 and 2400 will be.

Chatter Box

By Charles Kirby

The basketball season has begun on the hilltop with the games being played at the Salvation Army Community Center in North Nashville.

The Alphas will put their championship on the line, but will probably have little trouble in defending their crown from last year. They will be led by Ed Sisson, last year's high scorer.

The Deltas stand in a position to give the Alphas the most trouble and could spoil their plans for a third championship.

The Betas are not to be counted out of the race for the trophy. They have played the role as a spoiler more than once and will be out to blemish someone's record.

Science Club Activities

Films shown on January 8 were sponsored by the Science Club. The film, "Hawaii, U.S.A." was a colorful presentation of the islands showing flowers, volcanoes and the customs of the people. The other film on Canada showed the different peoples and their customs. One thing emphasized was the fact that the church was the center of their small communities.

Davie Edmondson, president of the Science Club, has shown some colored slides recently on nine countries of Europe. These pictures were made by Davie, himself, while on his furlough.

If you have been watching center campus lately, you probably have noticed some changes in the fish pond. In fact, you may have seen a "monkey" down in it—Don Blankenship, Professor and Mrs. Chambers, Mr. White and Ken Eady have also helped. First, all of the fish and seaweed were taken out. The water was drained and the sand shovelled out. The sides of the fish pond were scrubbed, and clean sand, water and seaweed were put back in.

If you have been down in one of the biology labs, you have probably noticed a large jug with green plants in it. This is not just any old jug but a terrarium. A year ago last October the Science Club

Be Considerate

If you have ever worked in the general office you know what it means to answer three lines on the switchboard, put up the stacks of mail, and answer half a dozen students who want to know, "Did I get any mail or packages today?" Let us try to save them the trouble of answering questions which we can find out for ourselves.

The squirrels enjoy the nuts which you put out for them but as yet they have not been seen eating any paper. If you share your package of peanuts with them, take the paper with you when you leave. They will not be needing it.

made a trip to the Cumberland plateau and collected mosses, ferns and other small plants. On the way back members of the club stopped at a wayside park and made up two balanced terrariums and placed the plants in them. The terrarium in the lab has not been opened since, and the plants are still living. This is possible because of photosynthesis and respiration. In photosynthesis oxygen is given off and carbon dioxide and water are used. In respiration oxygen is used and carbon dioxide and water are given off.

There is no duty we so much underrate as the duty of being happy.

Alphas Defeat Deltas

Last year's top scorer, Ed Sisson, took up where he left off last year by pouring in 24 points in the first T. N. C. basketball game of the year. The game which was played at the Salvation Army gym was climaxed by Sisson's 24 points and Bob Cook's 20 points.

The Alphas took a commanding 38-22 half time lead mostly on the power of Sisson's jump shots. The Deltas came storming back in the third quarter to come within 5 points; however, this was not enough as Bob Cook and Wendell Poole started connecting with long outside shots to pull the Alphas farther away from the Deltas in the scoring column.

Glenn Woods paced the Deltas with 16 points. Jerry Andrews and Wade Westbrook followed Woods in the scoring for the Deltas with 12 and 11 points respectively.

Trend Is Toward Smaller Cars

Cars are becoming smaller every year. Each year there is a big demand for more and more smaller cars. The trend is gradually turning toward these cars.

The gas mileage is "out of this world." You can make a six-hundred-mile drive, and spend as little as eleven to twelve dollars for the trip. With a somewhat larger make of car you would have spent twenty to twenty-five dollars. The average gas mileage is thirty-five to forty miles per gallon.

The smaller cars' speedometer also matches the speed limit of our roads today. A larger automobile may go as fast as a hundred twenty miles per hour, but our highways are not built for such speed.

In driving smaller cars there is more room to pass and park. People are becoming more and more conscious of this cheaper way of transportation.

Karen Pickett, eight-year-old daughter of Arthur and Lillian Pickett, is already choosing the teachers she wants when she comes to Trevecca. She heard students talking about grading by percent and grading on the curve. Evidently, she forgot the term "grading on the curve" but not the idea. Last week, she told her mother that she didn't want any of those teachers who graded "around the corner." When asked what she meant by grading around the corner, she said she didn't know but that it must be a very poor way to grade.

Rhyme and Reason

"The shyness of a violet,
The beauty of a rose,
The sacredness of churches
Cannot be told in prose..."

But when a thought is rearranged,
And written so it rhymes—
It's just as nice as music
Of the sweetest, clearest chimes!"

This poem was written by an eighth-grader, and published by the National Poetry Association, in a book called the Annual Anthology of High School Poetry. Although it may be a little exaggerated in its meaning, it does make one realize the importance of poetry in the everyday life. The most common article becomes an object of great interest—the most down-to-earth happening becomes the center of many people's attention when written in verse form.

Poetry can be used to the glory of God. One student at Trevecca Nazarene College, in addition to feeling the call of music in evangelism, also feels just as strongly an impulse to write for God's honor and glory.

What would our lives be like if they were made up only of ordinary, prosaic events? How much better if they are sprinkled through and through with poetry and song!

Be not disturbed at trifles or at accidents common or unavoidable.

—Benjamin Franklin
