COAL STRIKE PRESENTS ECONOMIC PROBLEM

In the past five years, John L. Lewis has given eight walk out signals to his 400,000 soft coal miners for whom he has raised their average hour wage of $0.50 in 1933 to $1.47 in 1946. Mr. Lewis has won most of his demands in these eight strikes. This eight strike is a violation of the Smith-Connally Act, which Secretary "Cap" Krug signed with Lewis last spring.

Mr. Lewis is demanding some important changes in the coal mining industry. He wants, first of all, a 40 hour week instead of the present 54 hour week, with no reduction in pay. He demands that the work begin on Monday, (some operators do not open their mines until Tuesday) so that miners on the Tuesday-Saturday shift would get time and one-half for Saturday. He insists that the present fifteen minute lunch period be increased to one-half hour. Mr. Lewis frequently referred to as the Great Gargoyle of labor, seems to be enjoying himself as he carries his cane, chews his cigars and waves good-naturedly to sightseers.

Mr. Lewis has provoked more economic trouble in the U. S. than any other man in recent history. The departments of Justice, Interior, War and Navy, the civilian production Administration, the Maritime Commission, the Federal Power Commission, the Office of Defense Transportation, and the U. S. Public Health Service have arrayed against him.

A shadow of disaster is sweeping across the United States. Republic Steel has cut operations 65 per cent and laid off five thousand men. Railroads into New York canceled five hundred trains and laid off three thousand railway workers. CPA demanded wartime "brownouts" in twenty-one Midwest and Eastern states. The floodlights have gone out in the dome of the Capitol in Washington—for John L. Lewis. The soft coal mined in the United States supplies 47 per cent of all energy generated in the States, 51 per cent of all electric power, 81 per cent of the locomotive power, 55 per cent of home heating, is controlled by Lewis.

COLLEGE FRESHMEN TO PRESENT PANTOMINE

One of the greatest productions in pantomime form ever given at Trevecca will be presented Friday, December 13, at 8 o'clock by the College Freshman. It is "The Holy Story" in seven scenes with one of the most original curtains ever used. A thirty-five voice choir made up entirely of freshman will form the elevated three-row curtain, to give such favorites as "Silent Night," "O Holy Night," "The Ninety and Nine," "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing," and many others, as the scenes change. The pantomime presents the birth of Christ in a new light, giving Zacharias and the Angel, The Annunciation, The Shepherds in the Fields, Holy Night at the Manger, The Presentation in the Temple, In Herods, Palace, and The Wise Men at the Manger. A thrilling awe and love for the Christ-child is experienced at the climax of the two-hour program.

CHRISTMAS GIFT EXCHANGE TO BE NEXT FRIDAY

The exchange of Christmas gifts among Trevecca students will be held on Friday, December 13, from 7:00-8:00 p. m. Gifts will be placed under a large Christmas tree in the dining hall, where the annual Christmas celebration is customarily held.

This occasion, sponsored by the Student Council, will precede the Christmas pantomine presented by the college freshmen. Information as to the drawing of names for the exchange of gifts will be given later by Miss Heflin, president of the student body.

Examinations December 17-18

Exam time is just around the corner so be prepared and avoid the last minute rush. If you wait until the week before Christmas holidays to start studying you will be too excited about going home to study much. Remember—cramming does not pay.

Tuesday and Wednesday, December 17 and 18 will be examination days for both high school and college.

For college, the exams will come at the same time that the classes ordinarily meet. Examinations for two-hour classes will be given on Tuesday while those for three-hour classes will be given on Wednesday. Four hour classes may have them on either day according to the preference of the teacher and the students.

THE DARDA STAFF

Material for the 1947 Darda must be in the hands of the printer by December 15, which is only a few days off. All students, who have snapshots suitable for use in the yearbook, are asked to give them to Howard Wall, associate editor, or turn them in to the Darda office. Students, who want their pictures returned, must be sure their names are written on the back of each snapshot.

CHORUS TO PRESENT CANTATA

The Trevecca Chorus will present a beautiful cantata, "The World's True Light," by R. M. Stultz, Sunday December 15, in the Alumni Auditorium. Many of our talented students and faculty members will have special parts. The soloists are; Vernetta Rouse, Marian Edwards, Rosalyn Hendershot, Neil Richardson and Professor H. Hammond; the mixed quartet is composed of Vernetta Rouse, Frances Hamilton, Prof. J. D. Irwin and Neil Richardson; the men's quartet, Neil Richardson, Dr. L. P. Gresham, Prof. J. D. Irwin and Prof. H. Hammond.

The chorus has been working hard and has been accomplishing much. You will enjoy this choral cantata very much. Invite your friends and show the chorus that you appreciate the effort which they have shown.

Student-Faculty Dinner to Climax Week Program

Courtesy Week was sponsored by the Student Council this week. A part of the chapel services every day was dedicated to this subject.

On Monday the College Junior Class presented Ed Phillips, who talked about "General Social Bearing." He was introduced by Lesper Heflin, president of the Student Council.

Ed stated that there were two extremes; actions and personality. Being too free with actions and words and being too reserved. He gave several good courtesy pointers good for practice on and off the campus. He said that such expressions as, "yeah," "oh boy," "I don't get you," and "that gets my goat," lower an individual's refinement and personality to a minimum and cheapens an individual, especially young ladies. This talk of helpful advice can be beneficial if we allow it to be so.

The College Freshman class presented a very interesting program on Tuesday. Faye Ihrig and Craig Ayres gave some interesting information on, "Introductions and Speech" in the form of a dialogue.

On Wednesday the College Sophomores gave some advice on "Etiquette of Dress."

The College Seniors conducted a Panel Discussion on Thursday with Marion Edwards, acting as chairman. Bernice Roedel, Iris Harris, Howard Wall, Alma Teeple, and Homer Adams participated in this discussion.

Dr. Mackey is to give a chapel talk today on courtesy.

As a grand climax for this week of courtesy there will be a student-faculty dinner in the dining hall at 6:30 p. m. this evening. The program will consist of special music, vocal numbers and readings by faculty members and students.

BOOKS DONATED TO LIBRARY

Mr. William R. Murphy of Knoxville, Tennessee, came to our campus November 26 and brought with him a very valuable gift of five hundred books for the library.

Mr. Murphy is said to have one of the best theological libraries in this section. He has willed the remainder of his library to Trevecca. He has had a very active part in the holiness work during his lifetime. Mr. Murphy is 80 years old and says he is still a young man. We deeply appreciate this gift. He came to Trevecca with Reverend Morsch, pastor of the Nazarene church at Knoxville.

Prayer Chapel to Be Dedicated Monday

The new beautifully furnished prayer chapel in the Administration Building, gift of the Carolina Club, will be dedicated during the chapel service Monday morning. Dr. Bracken, dean of religion, will be special speaker. His subject will be "Prayer." He will emphasize the place and importance of prayer at Trevecca.

The prayer chapel will remain locked until the chapel service Monday. During the dedication service, the key will be given to Dr. Mackey, our president, who will unlock the prayer chapel at the close of the service. Howard Wall, president of the Carolina Club, said he hoped that the prayer room would never be locked again.

The prayer chapel, project of the Carolina Club last year and this year, has been completed at a cost of $300.00. The Carolina Club is composed of students from North and South Carolina. Last year's membership was less than ten. This year there are approximately 12 members of the Club.

A partial list of contributors will be read as a part of the dedication service. When the list is completed in February, a placard listing the names of the contributors will be placed in the prayer room. Contributors to this worthwhile project are the Young Peoples societies from the following churches: Central Church, Greensboro, North Carolina; Raleigh, North Carolina; Monroe, North Carolina; First and Northside Churches, Charlotte, North Carolina, and First Church, Clarksville, Tennessee.

The purpose of the chapel is to provide a quiet place for prayer and meditation at all times of the day and night for faculty members and students. The atmosphere is conducive to prayer not to visitation. Members of the Club request that the prayer Chapel not be used as a place for meeting friends or carrying on conversations. The chapel is not to be used for group prayer meetings but for "quiet times" of prayer and meditation. Every student, faculty member, or visiting friend, is welcome to use the prayer chapel.

More than one person can use the room at one time and as long as they may desire.

The chapel will be open Monday for visiting. Beginning Tuesday, the room will be used solely for prayer and meditation.

Other furnishings, such as a Bible, Bible stand, and pictures will be added from time to time, the Carolina Club president said.

Editorials

Since this has been courtesy week on the campus, and special efforts have been made for general improvements along several lines, I would like to consider a few things that should be of general interest to all of us.

I am now thinking about a conversation that I had with Dr. Mackey this week. Our discussion was along the line of general improvements on the campus. In the course of the conversation several things were mentioned but we shall only consider a few. One of the major points that was considered was a need for an improvement in culture and refinement. If we are children why would it not be permissible to act as children? If we are college students why should we not act as Christian ladies and gentlemen? I believe there is a place that we can reach even in campus conduct that will make us move among the student body with poise, respect for others, culture, and refinement.

Another astonishing need of improvement is found in the language of the campus. Have you ever been a part of a conversation that was nothing but mere jest, frivolity and general collegiate slang? Such expressions as, "My aching back," "Gee Whiz", "My Lordie", "Holy Smokes", "What's a buzzing," etc. All these in the final analysis amount to nothing. Yet students spend hours in such cheap conversation. What do you say that when we talk we at least say something.

I would like to say a word about chapel stampedes. It has come to the place where the boys do not have to stand back and let the girls be first, the girls knock the boys down and are first. (Almost as bad as that.) It's a case of filing into chapel and limping out, if you try to walk out. It's either get in, get out, or get run over. If you were a visitor in our chapel it would be very embarrassing to have your "specks" knocked off, or your "bonnet" crushed in by a host of mad, hungry beings.

I agree that the grace of God is the basic benefit and help for all of us, but I also agree, however startling this may sound, that there are some things that the grace of God cannot do. Too many of us have the idea that to be saved and sanctified is the only thing we need to get us to heaven. This is true but the question is, how are we going to live with people? Why should not students on Trevecca campus be not only an example of the believer in religion but also an example in conduct, in etiquette, in speech, and in general, everyday consistent living? I do not go in for worldly songs but I do wish that we would join in with a phrase of a modern song and sing in unison, "I strike the happy medium in everything I do."

Robert Gray.

Editorial Note—I would like to take this opportunity to express my sentiments about the editorials that have been and are to be written in this paper. We do not consider this a space merely to be filled with slurring statements or sarcastic remarks about either the school or the student body. This is not a place for us to get even with someone or something that we disagree with. This column is written and dedicated to the general betterment of the school. We plan to consider general trends that need to be developed and improved. We would appreciate your cooperation, in that, when you read these editorials that you would consider that they are written with a hope that all of us shall improve by their suggestions.

SPICE of LIFE

There seems to be a universal tendency to assume that little things and those who do them are unimportant. People are often heard to say that the accomplishments of some great person make the ordinary person feel that there are some tasks which can and should be done without any preparation at all and almost without effort. A young person thoughtlessly asked me a few days ago if I planned to make a lot of preparation just for teaching, inferring that teaching was so unimportant that preparation was not necessary.

The size of the job, however, does not determine its importance. The most tiny screw in a large piece of machinery may occupy the most strategic point in the operation of the machine. The piccolo player must do his part in order for the band to have full harmony. The failure of some one to give attention to the seemingly insignificant parts of an airplane has been known to result in the death of several persons. So we are forced to the conclusion that the importance of a thing is determined by the amount of service it renders and not by the outward appearance that it makes.

Any job can be made important by the spirit in which it is done. One does not have to be a disciple to receive a disciple's reward. A cup of cold water given in the name of a disciple will yield such a reward. A person can minister to Jesus by helping to supply the needs of the least of His children. We should not be concerned with seeking out the big jobs, but rather with doing the little jobs, well. The large majority of people never become involved in great things, so the only chance for such people to become great is for them to do many little things better than anyone else can do them. Whether it is being president or janitor, let us do with our might what our hands find to do.

—D. H. Spencer

Hello Everybody!!!

I am back in the tower again after being slightly overfed from Thanksgiving. Just now I can shut my eyes and still see turkey, cranberry sauce and all the trimmings; but that has passed into the "land of the unknown", so I'll forget it and look forward to another good meal at Christmas. Trust you all had a good Thanksgiving and are thankful to be back in Trevecca again.

Speaking of turkey and good things to eat, Mary Ruth McNaron doesn't think chapel speakers should mention food in the chapel hour. Do you suppose the thought of food gives her indigestion?

The teacher was in earnest

The class was attention applying

When "Ka—choo" broke the silence

"Excuse me—" Clarabelle was replying.

(Church History Class)

We have one student in school who is always "hinting". His name is Jack Hinton.

Did you know we have a little "Brown" boy in school? Really, he is one we surely appreciate. We're glad to have Herbert among us.

Do you get tired of "sut" here in Nashville? Well, cheer up!! What if you had "sut" on you all the time like Irene and Nell Sutton (Sut-On)?

Grace Eby has aged quite a bit for she has achieved the recognition of "Grandma" on third floor of the girl's dormitory. She was dressed very stylish Saturday night corresponding with the "gay nineties".

We have a "King who likes Cleveland," a "Vera who likes white," a "Robert who likes Gray," a "Harold who likes Coats," an "Alma who likes Teeple," a "David who likes Hail," a "Joyce who likes a Merchant" and a "Thelma who loves Walls and Streets."

Billie Edwards has formed her conception of a couple on the campus, but she concluded that Paul and Jean have become "drizzles", because they are steady "drips".

You've all heard that "Music is the Language of the Soul", (could it be that Vernet's voice is the language of Ray Gullet's soul.)

Surprises were pleasant for the families of A. D. Boone and J. C. Wagner, when they drove their new cars home Thanksgiving.

"Mildred Brockman" and "Brock Spear" should be "doubly sweet", since they are named after a popular candy bar "BROCK".

Miss Paschall is a wide awake faculty member. She keeps her eyes on "studies", "students", and "men". She was overheard saying that "He's the sweetest thing". This is a mystery to be solved!!!

The saying, "Two heads are better than one", has been proven by Rob Staples and Marcella Cain. They made the "National Honor Society". Wonder if they shared their brains together!!!

Have you been courteous this week? Begin with kindness, fairness, self-control, and self-respect, add to these the habit of observation and a knowledge of the world's ways, and your manners will stand any test. Let's all strive for this!!!!

As the Faculty Sees It

Trevecca Nazarene College is not a perfect institution. Our enemies—we do have a few—say it is not. Many of our best friends and staunchest supporters say it is not. Members of the faculty agree that it has faults and shortcomings. Students admit that it falls below the exalted idea of perfection which they had held of it before they came here.

We do not want Trevecca Nazarene College to be a perfect institution. Before it reaches that status, most of us will have to leave for we cannot meet the standards that would be requisite to perfection.

But what do we want in this college as our own institution? Shall we resign ourselves to the fate of uncorrected weaknesses and unopposed tendencies toward small accomplishments, only because we cannot be perfect? As I see it, a college should be a community enterprise where all citizens strive cooperatively for the total improvement of all. This total development must include the enrichment of the social consciousness, the deepening of the spiritual insight, the enlargement of the intellectual horizon, and the increasing of the physical powers of each individual. In all these phases of improvement, the ideal is not a lengthening of any one far beyond the others, but rather the preservation of a delicate balance among them all. In fact, the most wholesome development in any phase of individual or group life is only attained when development along other lines is in poised balance with it. When the flag pole was raised on the campus recently, nobody who witnessed the procedure was satisfied until the guy wires on all sides were of equal length—in exact balance—indicating that the pole stood directly upright. Then, let us as Trevecca faculty and students, pull on the short ropes of the development of individual and group character, thus helping to bring about that nearly perfect degree of uprightness necessary for us to fly with credit the colors of the course of Christian education which we represent.

WORK OF THE COLLEGE SOPHOMORE CLASS

The College Sophomore Class has decorated two trees in front of our campus near the pond, with some beautiful lights. Each tree will have approximately twenty-four lights. These lights are to be used from year to year.

The members of our class are proud of our campus; you should be also. We hope that as you go about on the campus that you will enjoy seeing our expression of Christmas Greetings to each one of you during this Yuletide season.

Of Interest To Greek Students

Greek classes are rather "a-moo-zing" and "con-foo-zing" these days. Why? Well, who wouldn't get confused as well as amused when Roy Nix walks off saying "my friend" in Greek for "thank you" to our visitors who just came over from Greece? I also presume you think it an ordinary occurrence to give the "ou" sound in "trousers" an "ooo" sound --trooseurs." (Ask Robert Gray) "Pooket" for "pocket" is also very quaint.

Thanks to George and Angelia Nickolas for the educational as well as entertaining lessons in Greek.

skimp sketch

After an interview with a certain young gentleman that lives on Trevecca campus, I found I had acquired quite a few facts about him. I would like to relate them to you so I'll give you a few clues. Each one will be easier than the one before it.

1. He was born June 20, 1929 in the hills of Kentucky.

2. This gentleman is a senior in High School.

3. His hobby is collecting coins.

4. —?—'s favorites are: state- Kentucky (of course) color-blue

5. He plans to be a minister after he finishes his education.

6. His name is S1E4L6P2A9T3-S7B800R.

P. S. Oh, yes! I almost forgot to tell you what he said when I asked him his favorite food. He answered ice cream and more ice cream, but seemingly he likes "cain" all right.

"Welcome Oh, Winter"

The birds outside are harmonizing; little fairies of gold, red and orange have been falling gracefully from the trees; the wind has teased them so that they have left their dwelling place in care of little brown elves. They, too, are gradually leaving their home.

Every elf and fairy, every rolling hill --even the wind-- is trying to bid us farewell. Autumn is passing; Winter is coming!

They are telling us farewell because soon from "Wonderland" will come tiny snow drops to live where elf and fairy leaves once dwelt; every hill will have a new cloak; the wind shall have developed a deeper voice as it blasts forth from the north; even the birds will know that winter is come. Welcome! Oh, Winter!

Snow Drops

On His throne the Master sits
A glimpse of earth He sees,
How bare things look, he seems to say

The leaves have left the trees.
The birds still sing sweet melodies
But rolling hills look blight;
Perhaps a cloak they might could

Of something pure and white.
As the moments go drifting by
White faries leap gracefully down;
From the hands of the 'great Creator
So lightly without a sound. --
Lovely snow drops, welcome here!
We have great need of you.
O'er rolling hills and barren trees,
Bare earth will look all new.

"Snow Toward Evening"

By Melville Cane

Suddenly the sky turned gray,
The day,
Which had been bitter and chill,
Grew soft and still.

Quietly
From some invisible blossoming tree
Millions of petals cool and white
Drifted and blew,
Lifted and flew,
Fell with the falling night.

"Whiter Than Snow"

By William G. Fisher

Lord Jesus, thou seest I patiently wait;
Come now, and within me a new heart create;
To those who have sought Thee,
Thou never saidst no,
Now wash me and I shall be whiter than snow.

THE CENTER MISSION

The veterans at the Separation Center have organized a Nazarene Mission. Brother J. D. Saxon held a meeting on Sunday, Nov. 24 and helped in the organization. C. L. Ishee was elected pastor, William Fightmaster was elected Sunday School Superintendent — Adams, Church Secretary, —Conrad, Treasurer and Aaron Bees as Song Leader.

The first Sunday there were forty-five in Sunday School and the number mounted to sixty-five the second Sunday. The interest of the people was proved by the fact that about half of these were outsiders.

There has already been one saved and one sanctified.

They received permission from the Mayor of Nashville to use the building free of charge except for the light bill. First Church loaned the Mission some benches. Pray for these people at the Separation Center that the work there might go forward. They give the Nazarene men at the Center credit for the foundation of the Mission and God the Glory.

News From the Library

should be on the shelves in the near future.

Have you noticed the new card catalog near the charging desk? This has been on order for a year and came just last week. It is a gift of College Hill Church. It is a very nice piece of library equipment and we wish to express our appreciation to College Hill Church for this lovely and much needed card-catalog.

The library last week was the recipient of a part of the theological library of Mr. W. R. Murphy of Knoxville, Tenn. Bro. Morsch of Knoxville was instrumental in obtaining these books for us. There are about 500 of them and most of them are in excellent condition. Our thanks to both Mr. Murphy and Bro. Morsch.

The equipment most needed in the library at the present is shelving for our books. We have for more books than shelving space. However, material has not been available but we hope in the next few months to be able to obtain more shelves.

I AM THE PRINTING PRESS

By Robert H. Davis

I am the printing-press, born of the mother earth. My heart is of steel, my limbs are of iron, and my fingers are of brass.

I sing the songs of the world, the oratorios of history, the symphonies of all time.

I am the voice of to-day, the herald of to-morrow. I weave into the warp of the past the woof of the future. I tell the stories of peace and war alike.

I make the human heart beat with passion or tenderness. I stir the pulse of nations, and make brave men do braver deeds, and soldiers die.

I inspire the midnight toiler, weary at his loom, to lift his head again and gaze, with fearlessness, into the vast beyond, seeking the consolation of a hope eternal.

When I speak, a myriad people listen to my voice. The Saxon, the Latin, the Celt, the Hun, the Slav, the Hindu, all comprehend me.

I am the tireless clarion of the news. I cry your joys and sorrows every hour. I fill the dullard's mind with thoughts unlifting. I am light, knowledge, power. I epitomize the conquests of mind over matter.

I am the record of all things mankind has achieved. My offspring comes to you in the candle's glow, amid the dim lamps of poverty, the splendor of riches; at sunrise, at high noon, and in the waning evening.

I am the laughter and tears of the world, and I shall never die until all things return to the immutable dust.

I am the printing-press.

PRAYER ROOMS FOR GIRLS DORMITORY

The girls of McKay Hall have two new prayer rooms They felt the need of a quiet place for prayer and Bible reading. There were no available rooms because of crowded conditions but the trunk rooms were made available for use. Some of the girls cleaned and furnished these rooms. The rooms now have a couch, pictures, mottoes, chairs and a Bible. We want these rooms to be places of prayer and meditation. Day students are invited to use them.
